250 Volunteers Needed To Serve as Blood Donors

SEPTEMBER 20th, 1944

At High School Building, Mount Joy

Our fighting men need blood desperately, to give them another chance at life. This blood is flowing abundantly through your veins. Blood you can spare — and never miss.

Will you give one pint — right now? The call is urgent. Death comes to injured men quickly when there is no blood. Life comes back miraculously when precious blood plasma enters their veins.

You experience no pain in giving blood. . . . there is nothing to fear.

Bible, and through their teachings at Sunday Schools, into lands that still are very primitive in their modes of living as are the countries of Iran and Iraq. Here they find filth, no methods of sanitation, no modern machinery, nothing to indicate even a small trend toward modernism, but rather living as they did hundreds of years ago.

Because they have heard of the Jordan River, about Jerusalem, and about the country of Palestine, they desire to visit there, and expect to find the same living as they did in Iran and Iraq. But a surprise awaits them for in the past twenty-five years, modern ideas have set in, and they find fine modern homes, schools, fine universities, modern methods of agriculture, modern methods of sanitation, and modern modes of living.

Rabbi Davis went on to tell that in the book, "The Forgotten Ally", much is mentioned about the part Palestine played in turning the tide of war, just when Germany was at the threshold of a gigantic victory in Africa. Because Palestine is a mandate country, no person could be drafted into the army, and yet 35,000 Jews from Palestine enlisted in Montgomery's Army, as engineers, sappers, drivers, and fighters, each knowing the desert as they did their own back yard, and because of their knowledge of the desert, their daring and their help turned the tide of battle, and the tide of war at El Alemaine, and helped to drive the Nazis 1200 miles across the desert, across Sicily, and into Italy, eventually causing the defeat of Italy.

Rabbi Davis went on to tell how the people of Palestine worked for the Allies, that the shoes worn by Montgomery's army were made in Palestine, how before the war, Palestine was a citrus country, shipping to the country of Europe 90,000-000 crates of citrus fruits, but because of the fortunes of war it was necessary to find other markets for this fruit, and how through the science of chemistry, they found ways to make explosives from the fruit, how these people drove trucks, delivered supplies, and kept open the lines of communications to Montgomery's army.

All this and more was done by the people of Palestine, "The Forgotten Ally," but when the war is over and it can be told, Palestine, will stand out among the other nations of the world, concluded Rabbi Davis.

New Rust Preventive Compound Developed

War experience and research have resulted in the development of new rust - preventive compounds that greatly exceed the effectiveness of crankcase and transmission oils or even axle and pressure gun grease.

Tests started in March, 1942, and run under outside exposed conditions, using polished black metal strips and plow bottoms, gave the following results:

Crankcase and transmission oil prevented rusting for 7 to 30 days.

Axle and pressure gun grease prevented rusting for 30 to 90 days.

Five samples of rust-preventive compounds prevented rusting for 360 days.

One sample of rust-preventive compound prevented rusting for 453 days.

On the back or protected side of the metal strips 22 of the 28 rust-preventive compounds tested showed no rusting after 551 days.

Teardrop Pearl

The big island of Ceylon is separated from the southeast coast of India by a channel only 20 miles wide. On the map, it seems to hang from the neighboring Indian territory like a giant "teardrop" pearl—an appearance, some say, that accounts for one of its old travel-folder titles, "Pearl of the Orient."

Other romantic names given this luxuriant tropical isle, which now echoes to the sound of planes roaring overhead and anti-aircraft and rifle-squad practice, are "Land of the Dusky Leaves," "Island of Jewels," "Land Without Sorrow," and the "Dwelling Place of Lions."

Watchdog on the doorstep of southern India, Ceylon lies about 700 miles west of the Japanese-captured Andaman and Nicobar islands on the enemy-held side of the Bay of Bengal. It is 1,050 miles from the crowded industrial city of Calcutta, at the head of the bay, and 1,375 miles southwest of the nearest point on the Burma-Indian front.
