Columbia Boro's Water Shortage Is Serious

The water shortage at Columbia caused by shifting ice packs that jammed in the Susquehanna river, sending flood waters into the pumping station and filter plant, grew increasingly acute Tuesday, that Governor Martin was asked to appeal to the Third Service Command of the U. S. Army at Baltimore for immediate aid.

Some thirty industrial plants are closed, and all water consuming public service such as barber shop, soda fountains, etc. were asked to shut down immediately.

These restrictions were made necessary as river conditions continued, as the reservoir supply was reduced by more than one-third of the supply. Normal consumption is 1,200,000 gallons daily.

The Pennsylvania Railroad sent officials into the borough Tuesday, including G. A. Williams, division engineer of the Philadelphia division, who said that the railroad is making every effort to keep its normal traffic moving in the area.

Mr. Williams said that "the most freight in the world passes between Shock's Mills, above Marietta, and The Port" below Washington Boro — on an average of 10,000 cars a day.

Marietta and Middletown officials have offered all possible aid to Columbia, and hose lines and other equipment has been received from both communities.

The fire department maintained constant vigilance and residents were again cautioned to be extremely careful about fire hazards.

Candling Eggs on Farm Increases Profit

Their Quality Will Increase Consumption

While candling is not an exact science, it serves to eliminate those eggs which will mark down all eggs marketed. Fourteen out of every hundred eggs are "rejects" on the market. Many of these could be utilized on the farm, for home (the better ones) and as hog or poultry feed for the worse "rejects."

An unusual number of "spotted" eggs means that the flock has inherited this defect. It might be possible for the farmer, who has a large number of spotting in his eggs, to pick out the offenders and cull them out. The spotting rejects alone costs the farmer $45,000,000 annually. If the farmer removes all "rejects" he will secure a better price for the balance of his eggs than he would have for his entire output, good and bad.

Dirty eggs should be cleaned. A lime wash will not show, even when examined by experts. Fresh eggs will show an air-space of not over one-eighth of an inch in depth. When the egg is fresh the yolk will remain about center.

Blemishes, blood spots or damage spots on the yolk show up as dark spots when the egg is candled. Blood spots place the eggs as inedible, but can be utilized for home consumption. Development of germ in fertile eggs also places the egg in undesirable class.

In candling it is rather easy to tell eggs of high and low quality, but it does require skill to pick those in the intermediate stage. Persons who are skilled in the art, however, are able to accurately grade the eggs properly.

Peasants Gain. The application of chemistry to agriculture has resulted in the ground pea or peanut becoming a real factor in its own name as well as a serious competitor for other farm crops, particularly the soybean.

The peanut furnishes a cork substitute, they yield more oil per acre than cottonseed and they rank high as an energy food. A fiber similar to rayon is now being made from peanut protein. It can furnish artificial butter and a substitute coffee.

Cheap, milder and less stimulating than coffee, it might become a competitor to real article.

The peanut can be used in the manufacture of salad oils, shaving lotions, cosmetics, soaps, dyes, axle grease, massage paste for infantile paralysis, bases in medicine, flour, candy, insulation, explosives, paper board, textile lubricant, glycerine, floor sweeping compounds, fertilizer, stock and poultry feed and as fuel.

Diet Saves Pigs. Market savings in weaned pigs as a result of improved diets fed during gestation and lactation periods was found by B. W. Fairbanks of the University of Illinois. Successful weaning was increased from 7 to 83 per cent.

Satisfactory results during lactation are dependent in part upon feeding during gestation. The feeding regime during gestation must not be ignored when the question of high mortality among baby pigs is being considered. The addition of 10 per cent alfalfa meal to the ration brought the increased results.

Mastitis of Cows. Chronic infectious mastitis is a slowly progressive disease of the udder and in many cows causes partial and sometimes complete destruction of a large proportion of the milk-producing tissue. The quality of milk is often lowered because of increased bacterial contamination and is not desirable for human consumption. There are often no clinical symptoms observed until milk production begins to fall and the cows become an expense.

The remainder of the schedule is: Jan. 16, Manheim; Jan. 19, Mount Joy; Jan. 26, Marietta; Jan. 30, Elizabethtown; Feb. 2, E. Hempfield; Feb. 9, Rothsville.

Members of the squad are: James Madara, Lester Hawthorne, Charles Johnson, Leroy Miller; James Jackson, Paul Barr, Robert Strickland, Charles Eater; and the team is coached by John G. Hart, boys physical director. The team expects much sterner opposition during the second half of its schedule since many opposing groups have shown great improvement, during the past several weeks.

Eugene Saylor, music supervisor, has announced a band concert for February 16. Proceeds will be set aside for the purchase of new uniforms when once more available. The program will be announced later.

Farmers' Conservation

acreage and weights of legume hay seed crops must also be submitted at the same time.

Since it has been impossible to estimate the amount of money necessary to make these payments for 1944, it is now necessary to submit to the State Office actual performance figures promptly after February 15. All community committees are therefore urged to make reports of these farm conservation practices at the earliest possible moment.

If for any reason community committees are not able to visit these farmers, they should be contacted by mail or telephone for the completion of the report. The actual checking of compliance can then be done when visitations are made to secure enlistment of farmers in the 1945 war food and conservation programs.
