The Low Down From Hickory Grove

Some time back I was expounding on taxes, and poppin' off about what happened when Seattle took over the street cars and how, as soon as it did same, less Federal tax money trickled through Uncle Sam. And to take up the slack the Govt. upped the taxes on everybody throughout the Nation, including the Seattle citizens. And if you lived in Omaha or El Paso, I said, you got nicked, so it was not just a joke on Seattle.

Got a Franc, Yank? French Kids Chant WITH U. S. TROOPS IN FRANCE.—In England children cadging sweets from the troops had two chants: "Got any gum, chum?" "Got candy, handy?" Sgt. Adolph Schott of Saginaw, Mich., says French kids have a new version. "They are learning to yell, 'Got a franc, Yank?'" he said.

Women at war gives one the impression that man's place is in the home.

Find Drug to Aid Fight on Leprosy

New Weapon in Long War Is One of Sulfones.

CARVILLE, LA.—The medical world may have a new weapon in its fight against leprosy in promin, a new sulfonamide derivative and a relative of the now famous sulfa drugs, or some promin successor. Promin resulted from weary months of research by Dr. Louis Brambas, chemical engineer, bacteriologist and chemist. He put together atoms of nitrogen, carbon, oxygen, sulphur and sodium—and the resulting yellow powder was given the name promin.

The new drug is one of the sulfones, second cousin of the sulfonamides and a family long overshadowed by the sulfa's spectacular rise to medical prominence. In a group of 22 patients, each given promin intravenously daily, except Sundays, for a year. Two-week rest periods, during which they got no injections, were observed three times. They were pined with liver and iron to ward off anemia, the most troublesome manifestation resulting from promin injections. Results showed that 15 cases definitely improved; the condition of six remained stationary, and only one showed any signs of growing worse. In another experiment, 46 sufferers took a course of from two to 11 months. Twenty-six showed objective improvement. In 17 the conditions were stationary, and only three patients grew worse.

Normal skin began to replace copy leprosy patches. Open sores healed. Throat and nose lesions, which clog these passages and cause suffocation, began to subside, and leprosy lesions of the eye, threatening blindness, cleared up.

Save 430,000 Man Hours By Ideas of Employees

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—A total of 430,000 man hours have been saved in the manufacture of guns and ammunition by ideas, suggestions and inventions of employees of Winchester Repeating Arms Company, it was announced by the war production board.

Nineteen national awards made by the WPB in recognition of the ingenuity of Winchester employees, is the highest number ever accorded a single war plant at one time. Although the saving in man hours was distributed throughout the plant, Thomas I. S. Boak, works manager, stated it was equal to the production of 30 million rounds of 30-caliber cartridges, or 24,000 Garand rifles or 37,000 Winchester carbines. Almost three-quarters of a million pounds of brass also was saved by employees' suggestions. This saving is the equivalent of more than 35 million cartridges for the new carbine, Mr. Boak said.

Soldiers Plant Gardens And Grow Aleutian Flora

AN ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE.—Arrival of orchid time in the Aleutians has converted hundreds of men, from GIs to generalists, into ardent flower fanciers. The orchids, miniature replicas of the lush, tropical flower, bloom profusely on protected hillsides, but are only one of a myriad of flowering plants which cover the grassy Aleutian slopes. Buttercups, wild iris, bluebells and lilies of the valley are among the more common blooms.

Many soldiers have well-kept flower gardens around the doors of their quarters huts, and flowers border the pathways. Vases with an assortment of blossoms brighten the corners of many huts, and it's not unusual to see officers of the post commander's staff returning from their weekly hike carrying flowers. Amateur botanists found flowers on these islands markedly similar to species on the mainland. In general, the flowers are much smaller here—where growth is conditioned by the short summer season—and are more delicately scented or without any scent.

Flying Auto Comes Next, Roscoe Turner Asserts

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.—Roscoe Turner of Indianapolis, former speed flier, predicted "flying automobiles" in the postwar future. When his prediction brought a laugh from the Missouri American Legionnaires he was addressing, Turner said: "I'm not kidding. These things have already been flown. 'Some day when you go in to buy a car, the salesman will ask whether you want it with or without wings. 'You'll be able to drive to the airport, attach the wings and take off. When you come back, you'll check the wings at the airport and drive back to your garage.'"

Housewives in war plants have discovered a great deal of magic about "touch."

They have learned that with a touch of a factory building, pick up a 10-ton truck, weave the fabric of a thousand army tents, punch a hole through steel plates, melt down metal scrap, or machine a cannon.

In industry they have learned that at their finger tips there is a giant, willing worker—Ready Kilowatt—the electrical wizard! Ready Kilowatt, a superman... who furnishes the muscles... while humans furnish the brains and the nimble fingers to guide his work.

Housewives in war plants have made another important discovery... if factory work can be done this easy, speedy, modern way, there is little sense in doing housework the slow, old-fashioned way.

There is no question about it... housewives who have been in war work will have modern factory speed and efficiency in their homes, too.

And why not?

Even before the war there was automatic electric cooking, automatic electric dishwashing, automatic electric laundry service. But, too few housewives could then visualize the time, work and trouble electricity could save. Today's housewives in war work have learned what electricity can do.

Are you going to be one of these lucky housewives who will rely on her sense of touch... the touch of a finger tip... to make tomorrow's homemaking an easy pleasure?
