

OWL LAFFS

—BY— A WISE OWL

I have just been told by our printer's devil, Bobby, that in his final English exam at the close of the term, one question called for a collective noun, and without even hesitating he wrote down, as his example "Flypaper" — — — Would you argue about it?

Since all these nice boys are coming back from service, A comely blonde from uptown, said: "Oh, I wish I were an oyster." "Of all things, why an oyster," I wanted to know. So she explained: "Cause nobly expects an oyster to be good at this season." — — — Look out, soldier!

Today (and I mean these hot days) American redskins are found on reservations, and on our bathing beaches.

Now for a bedtime story— There was once a considerate husband who had his suits made with only one pocket. It saved his wife so much time at night.

One of our Beau Brommels took his girl boating at Hershey on Sunday and after they were in mid-stream the girl exclaimed: "Quick, turn back, the boat is leaking." And her boy friend bravely answered: "Don't get so excited. It's only leaking at one end. We'll sit at the other." — — — Isn't he brave?

One of the fellows who took a job at Pearl Harbor says that kissing his girl goodbye was like eating soup with a fork. It took a long, long time to get enough.

Overheard a slight domestic squabble today and finally the wife decided to try for sympathy to win her point, so she exclaimed: "I do not know why you argue with me today. Every bone in my body hurts. But instead of sympathizing, her hubby retorted: "If every bone in your body hurts, be glad you're not a herring."

Two 7-year-old boys were sitting on the post office steps this morning making faces at each other. One of our local men who was going in for his mail at the time, watched the proceedings for awhile and then he said: "I'll bet I can make a worse face than either of you." The one little fellow looked up at him and answered: "You ought to be able to, look at the face you've got to start with." — — — The man took a hasty leave and vowed to mind his own business from then on.

I heard a fellow say that Europe's greatest need the past year was boundary lines with Zippers.

A four month married hubby exclaimed to his pal of bachelor days: "A wedding ring may not cost much — — — but holy blazes what an upkeep!" — — — Boy, he ain't kiddin'!

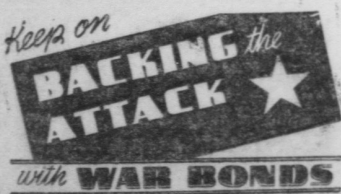

Our Dumb Dora is so dumb that when her date called her "a regular Venus," because she wasn't all there, she was flattered.

Phyllis came forth with this— A Woman was sitting in a booth at Sloan's eating a pineapple sundae when a man entered and ordered a chocolate soda. How did she know he was a sailor?" So Doty asked: "How did she know?" To which Phyllis exclaimed: "Because he had a sailor suit on" — — — Is that one as old as I think?

Yesir, here it is, almost July 4th, won't be no time at all until school starts and the kids have Christmas vacation.

COST ACCOUNTANTS HONOR LOCAL MAN

Mr. Richard M. Fletcher was appointed by Mr. J. Harold Haag, president of the Lancaster Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants to serve as Associate Director of Membership on the Board of Directors for the 1945-46 chapter year.

Mr. Fletcher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fletcher, 130 Delta St., Mount Joy, and is employed in the Accounting Department of the Columbia Malleable Castings Corporation, Columbia, Pa.

His appointment is justifiable as a member who has taken real interest in the affairs of the chapter and demonstrated that interest by persistent activity on behalf of the chapter. Mr. Fletcher has won the admiration and high respect of his fellow members, in the short time he has been a member, by writing an article for publication in the Association's Bulletin issued semi-monthly. The title of the paper was "Imagination and the Clerk", and was accepted with great enthusiasm and interest by the Chapter and Headquarters at New York City. The credit received from headquarters for this paper was instrumental in the Lancaster Chapter meeting its Stevenson Trophy Competition Budget for Publications for chapter year just ended.

The points received enabled the chapter to finish among the first fifteen chapters out of seventy-nine other chapters competing for the Stevenson Trophy.

THE GRETTA PLAYERS

Honorable discharge from the army, William C. Tubbs, (above), has returned to the profession he knows so well—the theatre and the audiences at the Gretta Playhouse, Mt. Gretna, were given an opportunity during the opening week to see how good he really is when dominated by many of the scenes in "Three's A Family", the opening attraction which to exceptionally large crowds for so early in the season.

Mr. Tubbs, who has one of the finest records of any young character actor, has another fine part in the second week's production, "Out of the Frying Pan", which opens tonight, (Thursday, June 21).

This talented performer has appeared in 87 motion pictures and has played in stock and major stage productions from coast to coast. In Mae West's epic production "Catherine Was Great" he enacted six different roles at various times during the New York run.

During his service in the Army, he wrote, produced and played in the first all-army show to play before a civilian audience since 1917. His original 32 scene musical comedy "Keep Mum Chum" brought him a special citation from the war department for his work as author and director of army shows.

BOND BROTHERS STAR STUDDERED CIRCUS

Bond Brothers Circus, which is playing in several nearby towns, features many world-famous Acts and Stars. Prominent among these is the DeRisiki Troupe of seven sensational acrobats, who have been featured in every big city newspaper in the United States.

The act is so unique and attractive that such magazines as Life, Pic and Yank have all acclaimed it. For great skill and charm these acrobats have no peers. Bond Brothers is very proud to present them for your enjoyment.

Tama Frank and Patsy featuring the Whirl of Death is another attraction that will long be remembered, while Miss Lucy Lee with her chair in the air will thrill both young and old.

Bond Brothers Circus will play in Mount Joy, using the Borough Park giving an afternoon and evening show, on Thursday, June 28, and popular prices will prevail. Bond Bros. Circus comes to Mount Joy after playing in Manheim on Monday June 25, Ephrata Tuesday, June 26 and Lititz, Wednesday June 27.

John Dillinger Reports

announced that the Rotary Club Soft Ball Team would like to play the Lions Club in the Boro Park next Tuesday at 7 p. m. The challenge was accepted, and we hope both teams will have plenty of substitutes on hand. Since Middletown Lions Club will not have a Soft Ball team the League schedule previously announced will remain the same, with the exception that all games in which Middletown was to have participated, will be omitted.

The next regular meeting will be held at Hostetter's on Tuesday July 3rd at 6:15 p. m. and the attendance committee urges all members to make the attendance 100%.

MENNONITE CHILDREN'S HOME ELECTS ITS OFFICERS
