Ants in Garden May Be Controlled by Pyrethrum Ants in lawns, fields and gardens can be controlled with a concentrated pyrethrum product, according to W. A. Price, Kentucky experiment station. A preparation containing 2 per cent in a vegetable oil soap is recommended. The dosage should be applied at the rate of one tablespoonful to a gallon of water. A gallon is sufficient for a hill 12 inches in diameter and two inches high. Everybody in this locality reads The Bulletin—that's why its advertisers get such excellent results. 8-29-17p

Economical Milking Parlor for Farm

Saving in Capital And Labor Costs Economy, both in initial cost and labor, is the chief attribute of the pen-type dairy barn with attached milking parlor used by many dairymen. It is particularly advantageous when adding to the size of the herd. The cows are allowed to run loose in the barn and are milked and fed in an adjoining lean-to milking parlor. The total cost for materials of the lean-to shown in the sketch would be approximately $900, including a fire-resistant asphalt roll roofing and gypsum exterior walls. This will permit the farmer to qualify for producing Grade A milk. The six-stall parlor is large enough for a 30-cow herd. It does increase the amount of bedding needed by nearly 50 per cent. This results in a corresponding increase in manure value. One of the main advantages of this type construction is that the herd may be added to without expense of new stanchions. 8-29-17p

Jersey Cattle Jersey cattle raised on the Isle of Jersey have the reputation of being free from all contagious diseases. Cattle tuberculosis, mastitis and sterility, the diseases which are found on dairy farms elsewhere, do not infest the cattle on the 10-mile long island in the English channel, according to Jersey breeders there. There are some 9,000 cattle on the island, divided into average herds of 12. No artificial breeding is carried on. The island breeders grow some of their feed, such as grass, roots (from a second crop) and hay. Concentrates are bought to make up deficiencies. Tethering at pasture, as "semi-isolation," helps to prevent disease. 8-29-17p

"Magic Pilot" The first excursion steamer anywhere to have the benefit of a "magic pilot," whose efficiency is as great in darkness and fog and storm as in daylight and clear weather, now is operating out of Boston harbor. Congested harbor traffic conditions, the irregular course of the channel and the presence of island masses, have made navigation in the Boston harbor a complicated and hazardous procedure in "thick" weather, but the electronic navigator is designed to help the ship's captain plot a safe course, even though his normal visibility is strongly limited by natural conditions. 8-29-17p

Bulls Treacherous A bull considered perfectly safe usually injures someone, farmers are warned. It should always be taken for granted that bulls are dangerous. As a calf the animal must be treated kindly, but never petted or teased, and must be trained to being led and tied. When the bull is a year old it's wise to put a ring in its nose as a convenience in handling and as protection in case the bull becomes vicious. Dehorning is also a good practice, and the bull must not be allowed to run loose in the pasture with the herd. 8-29-17p
