

SIX TONS OF DISHES WASHED IN AVERAGE HOME ANNUALLY

Accelerated Salvaging of Household Fat Makes Possible Present Supplies of Soap for This and Other Household Chores

It has been calculated that every American housewife washes six tons of dishes every year! Add up the accumulation from 365 breakfasts, luncheons, dinners and in-between snacks and the total would fill six trucks, experts say.

Staggering as the task of washing six tons of dishes sounds, imagine how much more impossible the job would be without soap! The prospect of a soap-less life is not on the horizon, however, as long as housewives keep up their present rate of salvaging fat.

Department of Agriculture authorities point out that if it had not been for salvaged fat in 1945, housewives would have had 13 per cent less soap. Even so there are not enough industrial fats and oils available to meet the demand for soaps and other goods the public wants.

Help Yourself

Every time you turn in a pound of fats to your meat dealer you are actually helping yourself and your neighbors by relieving the shortage not only of soap but also of scarce items like table linen, draperies, floor coverings, even possibly some more nylons.

Food experts too are urging fat conservation! Use and reuse every drop and ounce of beef, bacon and even lamb fat when you're cooking, they say. Then, when you've had all the food value of your fat, turn in the drippings and scrapings for salvage.

The 800,000,000 people starving in Europe and Asia are scavenging in garbage cans for grease that many an American family washes down the drain. Fats are scarce everywhere. We, as a nation, must be careful not to waste material, which if properly used would save human lives in some other country.

and add to comfort in our own. Remember your annual six tons of dishes.

One Pound Helps

Sixteen tablespoonful of used fat makes a pound. One pound of used cooking fat turned over to a meat dealer helps relieve the shortage of industrial fats and frees enough soap fats to help make a box of packaged laundry soap, or six bars of toilet soap.

The lady engineer and general manager of such a household therefore can save and salvage enough used cooking fat to take care of her dishwashing needs.

Remember that in addition to dishes, literally tons of clothes need washing every year—miles of woodwork and linoleum must be scrubbed and it all takes mountains of soap. Sit down and figure out the amount of soap . . . and the amount of fat . . . required to keep your household clean.

Supplies Never Lower

Supplies of edible and inedible fats and oils all over the world have never been as low as they are today. Fats and oils imports to the U. S. are still only a shadow of their pre-war tonnage. The only tangible way to get more raw materials for soap making and other essentials is by turning in more used cooking fat.

Continued conservation of every drop of used cooking fat will prevent shorter supplies of soap. Accelerated fat salvage—the skimming of soups, scraping of pans, rendering of raw and cooked fat—means improvement in soap supply, and a slight easement in the household burden of six tons of dishes every year.
