Better Citizens To Build A Better World

On this, the eve of Girl Scout Week 1946—October 27 through November 3—we call a nationwide "time out" from trial, stress, and atomic bewilderment for a glance at a very refreshing and inspiring picture—that of Girl Scout organization, whose more than a million members will embark this week on the second year of a two-year post-war active citizenship program designed to make "Better Citizens To Build A Better World."

Under the competent direction and supervision of trained volunteer leaders, Girl Scouts everywhere are becoming more and more an indispensable part of community, national and international life. How? By learning, within their own troops, to be useful and active citizens able to make decisions; to respect the rights of others; to participate in group planning and the carrying out of plans; by keeping abreast of current changes, trends and activities, being able and ready to offer their skills and services, whenever and wherever needed.

Girl Scouting, the largest organization of its kind for girls in the world, was founded in the United States almost thirty-five years ago by the late Juliette Low, in whose memory national Girl Scout Week is celebrated annually. The traditional Seven Service Days, as they are called are set aside to demonstrate the many and varied activities which are made available to girls through the Girl Scout program. Sunday, uniformed troops will attend services in their own churches. Monday is Homemaking Day; Tuesday, Citizenship Day; Wednesday, Health and Safety Day; Thursday, International Friendship Day; Friday, Arts and Crafts Day; and Saturday, Out-of-Doors Day. Girl Scouting, the common ground of understanding to all girls, regardless of nationality, race, or creed, now serves over a million girls.

Enough Food is no Accident

It is no accident that the largest crops in our history are being harvested this year when we, and the rest of the world, need them most.

In spite of war, loss of labor and little new equipment, the American farmer has again taken care of us and provided a life-saving surplus for abroad.

How do our farmers do it? How is it that only sixteen per cent of our people can feed all of us and go on breaking records in the face of circumstances which slow up industry?

There are three reasons: First, farmers work harder and longer than most other Americans; Second, they know how to make the best use of tools. And, third, they have a long-standing partnership with industry seeking to satisfy their urge to get more out of the land for the same labor. Farmers are still practicing the kind of enterprise that built America.

National thanks are due the farmer for the job he has done in the last five years. Universal respect is due him for his foresight in helping industry equip farms to meet a whole series of emergencies.

BUT... we should not crowd our luck, or the farmer's luck either. Too many farm tools are now worn out. Without new ones production may go down. Farmers need over eight hundred million dollars' worth of new implements and equipment. It is up to industry and labor to keep wheels turning to produce them, but any recurrence of strikes would prevent this:

America should see that the hard-working farmer gets what he needs:
