Commander Griffith, an outstanding soldier of both wars, has proven himself one of the foremost commanders in American Legion's history. And our own state, Pennsylvania, is most proud of him for he is a Pennsylvanian and he makes his home in Uniontown, the home of General Marshall, among others. Following the close of the past war, National Commander Griffith established a business in Washington, D. C., but he still remains a faithful, loyal worker to Lafayette Post 51, Uniontown, Pa., American Legion.

The Work Shop of The Poppy

The American Legion was the first national organization to adopt the poppy as its Memorial Flower. These poppies bloom in hospital wards throughout the long, stormy winter months, and on Poppy Day come forth bringing their three-fold message of Remembrance, Helpfulness and Service.

The poppy is the living symbol of the obligations and sacrifices required of all good American citizens in binding up the wounds of a nation's disabled.

In remembrance of America's heroic dead and in helpfulness to her living, let every one wear a Poppy on Poppy Day.
