Increase Milk With Electrical Heaters

Higher Production Can Be Secured With Control

Of all the problems which livestock farmers face during the winter, one of the most annoying is the task of preventing ice from coating the surface of their stock tanks. An adequate year-round water supply is essential to enable dairy cows to continue to milk production and to maintain economical gains on beef cattle and hogs. A pressure water system will do the job most of the year, but what about those freezing months farmers now are facing? The following results of tests conducted by Purdue university help in approaching the problem: There is no advantage in actually warming water for stock; the maintenance of an ice-free drinking hole is sufficient; water under pressure eliminates the necessity of having large capacity storage tanks. Given these findings, agricultural engineers have turned to electricity as a means of overcoming winter stock tank worries. Research has shown that electric heaters, with wattages rated as low as 300, are capable of keeping ice-free holes open in small tanks without difficulty. Among newly developed electric stock tank heaters, operating at low cost, is a device which is designed to float on the surface of the water. It consists of a hollow metal disk, encircled by a heating element and containing a thermostat. Tests show that it can keep a recommended drinking hole open in temperatures far below zero.

KNOW YOUR BREED Texas Longhorns By W. J. DRYDEN

This ancient breed of cattle, which used to roam in the southwest in vast herds, is being successfully rescued from threatened extinction by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Texas Longhorns first were introduced to this continent in 1521 by Gregorio Villalobos, a governor-general of "New Spain." With the introduction of heavier, beefier cattle, the Longhorns began to disappear. Shelters for calves and heifers should be dry and well-bedded. The Washington State college individual pens about 24 to 30 square feet in area may be used for small calves. They help prevent the calves from sucking each other, make it easier to feed the calves individually and help to prevent spread of disease.

RAY BRUBAKER AT CALVARY BIBLE SCHOOL

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brubaker from Chicago, Ill. will be guests of Calvary Bible Church, New Haven and Henry Sts. on Sunday morning at 10:30. Mr. Brubaker will speak of the work into which the Lord has recently called him and his wife. Pastor Summy while in Chicago recently was privileged to hear of this new type of ministry from Mr. Brubaker. He leaves a good position as chief news editor of the Radio Station of Moody Bible Institute to enter the field of highway evangelism by means of a trailer ministry. The trailer will be so constructed that the rear end can be lowered thus providing a pulpit from which to preach. It is planned that they will have the trailer for exhibition. Mr. Brubaker's home is in Florin, we believe his many friends will want to meet him and his wife and hear more of this new type of home Missionary work. You are cordially invited to be with us at Calvary for this service Sunday morning at 10:30.
