

OWL LAFFS —BY— A WISE OWL

Here it is, folks! The Laff of the week. Horace Wertz went home from the fire house in the taxi, only to immediately return by bicycle. He had forgotten his watch and came back to retrieve it.

We've been having a great deal of trouble with the rabbits eating off the annual flowers which our women folk are planting at The Springs. One bed in particular is being blitzed so we decided to watch for the culprit and when we saw what was eating the flowers, we were no longer surprised. You see — it was a Mama Rabbit that has babies in a nest nearby and she's eating a whole bed of carnations. We surmise she's quite particular and insists on feeding her young Carnation Milk!

A local fellow got a new girl and when he told a friend she was a blonde, the fellow asked: "Natural blonde or a platinum blonde?" "Neither," replied the youth, "She's a suicide blonde." "What in the deuce is a suicide blonde," his friend inquired. And the answer was: "Dyed by her own hand."

I thought people only got "Shovey" in the last few years but it seems its always been going on. Anyhow they say when Noah had packed the last pair of animals in the Ark, there wasn't room for another insect. In the commotion a fieldmouse crowded against an elephants toe. "Look out!" trumpeted the elephant. "Who do you think you're pushing!"

When a next year's Freshman was asked whether he'd rather be in an explosion or a collision, he immediately answered: "A collision, of course." "Why, of course?" inquired the questioner. "Well," he explained, "in a collision there you are. But in an explosion, where are you?"

Sometimes I get very confused! I see certain people with certain other people and darned if I can remember for a minute who's married to whom — Don't everybody put the shoe on at once.

There's one man, who in his twenty-five years of driving, says he's never had to complain of back-seat driving. In fact he's never had a word from behind. — He drives a hearse.

Could you stand a few moron items? — One moron was painting the ceiling as the other entered the room. "Got a good grip on your brush?" asked the newcomer. "Sure," said the painter. "Well hold tight to it," instructed the other. "I'm taking away the ladder."

"Is this number 1-1-1-1?" asked the voice over the telephone. "No," replied the moron. "This is eleven-eleven." "Sorry to have bothered you," apologized the voice. "No bother," said the moron. "I was getting up anyway to answer the phone."

Put out your Welcome flags to all those fire lads and lassies that will be in town on Saturday, folks. WELCOME, FIREMEN!!
