EDITORIAL

Remember it isn't worry about the other fellows' trouble that puts wrinkles on your face.

Cheer up fellows. Whenever you become disheartened, remember that even the sun has a temporary eclipse.

By this time a number of men are wondering why a vacation costs about twice as much as the amount you have put aside for it.

STILL SAFE CHEWING

Children who chew bubble gum might have been disturbed to hear that the Federal Food and Drug Administration was investigating the manufacture of this gum. Five states began checking through their health departments after a number of complaints of stomach and mouth ailments, supposedly coming from chewing bubble gum. The government branch used monkeys as a testing ground of all brands and the monkeys remained hale and hearty. No action has been taken against any bubble gum manufacturers because there has been no definite proof that it was this way of chewing that caused the children's illness. Such will no doubt be welcome news to our youngsters.

A GOOD RETURN

An American missionary to China brought home to this country in 1894, the first soybeans. This crop was many years taking hold of the farmers' fancy, but more and more soybeans were grown until today it is a most important crop. We were especially grateful for it during the war. Last year production ran over 196 bushels. During the war the soybean crop of other countries was terrifically reduced, especially in the Far East. In certain of those countries the seed of several varieties was entirely lost. Some of those Far Eastern countries are now coming to us to supply them with another start of these plants. We are sending them in large volume, and these have been improved in many ways from the original species brought here, from there, in 1894.

WHILE YOU READ

In about the time it will take you to read this brief article, a fire will occur somewhere in the United States. Thousands of dollars worth of property will be destroyed. And it is very possible that someone will die a horrible death.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters states that a fire alarm is sent in every 53 seconds — and a fire breaks out every 57 seconds. Each day, property loss runs into the millions, and several lives are lost. Finally, for each death, there are four injuries.

This is the record for an ordinary, "quiet day." On days when spectacular fires occur, the toll of death and destruction soars far beyond the average.

The fire that is in progress while you read this may be far away. But the next fire may be in your home or your place of business. Destructive fire has no favorites. It strikes without warning — and no property and no life is safe from it.

NO STOPPING THEM

Hope seems lost that science can find a chemical that in one shot will rid us of all pests. It seems that those who study such matters have found that the more they learn about pests, the more involved becomes the campaign to control them. Farmers have been complaining that there are all kinds of new pests to plague him, kinds that grandfather never had to worry about. He says that some and then, in small numbers, but that now they storm his crops in on total destruction. We had hoped that DDT would be the cure-all, but DDT is accused of killing certain parasites that formerly preyed on certain destructive farm pests, and since the parasites have been killed by DDT, those pests have multiplied.

We are told that specialized farming and scientific farming has not helped reduce the pestilence for where large sections specialize in one crop the bugs have a regular field day. Crop rotation helped to keep this down, they say.

It is estimated that pests cost the American farmers, stockmen and some industrialists $7 billion annually. This is surely a hey-day for bug and a headache for agriculturists.

AS OLD AS OPPRESSION

It is often seriously argued that some form of communism will eventually prevail throughout the world because it is a young and dynamic doctrine, filled with vitality and promise, which satisfies the highest ambitions of peoples. On the other hand, the argument continues, capitalist democracy is old and exhausted, has outlived whatever value it may once have had, and so is doomed to extinction in the long run.

This has all been states persuasively by the totalitarian propagandists, who have made a fine art of pamphleteering. But it is a complete perversion of historical fact. There is nothing basically new in communism, fascism, or any other totalitarian doctrine except the name. It is as old as cruelty and oppression. It deals with heretics, with the weapons of torture, execution and banishment — precisely as was done in the time of the inquisition centuries ago. Its labor policy is that of serfdom — every man and woman is regarded as a slave of the state, to be used as the official ruling class desires. Its economic philosophy is essentially that of absolute monarchy, when everything was the property of the king, and freedom of opportunity was unknown. Its attitude toward all civil liberties — freedom of press, of speech, of assembly — is likewise as old as recorded history itself. Everyone must think and parrot what they are told, or suffer grave consequences.

Are the masses of the Russian people any better off under the Soviets than under the Romanovs? On ruthless dictatorship succeeded another by force of arms. The people, in whose name the revolution was effected, are still submerged in an abyss of ignorance, want, fear and absolute mental and physical regimentation.

Capitalist democracy, for all its faults, is the only form of government which has proven itself capable of maintaining the freedoms of the people. It is the only form of government in which the people exert complete authority, and have the eternal safeguards that make dictatorship impossible. It was the goal toward which nations strived through bloody centuries, and for what millions of men died. The dynamics of the total state are in reality the dynamics of the cruelest form of feudalism.
