WORKING TOGETHER

Lancester County Farmers learned through experience that farming, or any other business, cannot survive if production supplies must be purchased at retail and finished products must be sold at wholesale

Confronted with this condition, Lancaster farmers banded together in 1934 to establish Lancaster County Farm Bureau Co-operative Association. This association has since provided farmer members and others with goods and services as close to cost as possible.

Now composed of more that 4000 farmerowners who control its operations, Lancaster Farm Bureau has provided many services in addition to purchasing and marketing services for its members.
