

THE ROAD AHEAD

under a competitive system which penalizes and favors none. He is free to determine his own destiny, and he is not the tool of the state or any other interest.

These are not separate, unrelated entities. Every last one of them is dependent on the others. When one freedom is lost, all the rest are endangered. No dictatorship has ever been established all at once. A right is abrogated here, another there; the state seizes business, then takes over the labor unions; new "interpretations" are placed on the rights of free speech and assembly—so it goes, step after step, until the job of despotism is completed.

Dictators trade on fear—fear of want, fear of hunger, fear of cold, all the natural, material fears. They promise a maximum of material "security" to the tragically confused people they entice. And this poses another question: Can a people, in return for the surrender of their freedoms, obtain more goods, a higher standard of living, a greater measure of protection from adversity?

The question answers itself. The greatest material advancement in the history of the world has been in the nation where there has been the greatest amount of freedom for the individual—the United States. It is not accident that the pay of the American worker, measured in terms of purchasing power, is ten or a dozen times that of the average Russian worker. A still better comparison is found with present-day England, the country to which we are bound the closest by the ties of a common language inheritance and tradition. Socialism—which can be the vanguard of dictatorship—has aggravated every English economic problem. It has produced less goods for export, not more goods for export; less coal, not more coal; less agricultural production, not more agricultural production. Worst of all, it has sapped the energies and ambitions of the people. There can never be progress in a state where individual opportunity, initiative and enterprise are discouraged, and the government does all the thinking.

The super-state is not only spiritually barren but materially inefficient. When we attempt to trade freedom for security, we lose both. This thought was perfectly expressed by Somerset Maugham, the most distinguished living novelist, when he said: "If a nation values anything more than freedom, it will lose its freedom; and the irony of it is that if it is comfort or money that it values more, it will lose that too." That says it all in one sentence.

The hope of this nation is that our people will profit by example. The hope of the world is that it will be able to break the shackles of oppression. The hope of mankind lies in a re-affirmation of the rights and dignity of the individual.

HOSPITAL CONDUCTING POLL OF PUBLIC OPINION

The board of directors of Lancaster General Hospital has appointed a community relations committee to conduct a Poll of Public Opinion in this area to determine the views of the people on the adequacy and acceptability of the hospital's services. John H. Carter, president of the hospital board announced.

Under the auspices of the committee, of which Kendig C. Bare is chairman, several thousand copies of a four-page questionnaire are being mailed to a representative cross-section of the more than 130,000 residents of city and county who, in large part, are dependent on the hospital for care.

Results of the survey, Mr. Carter explained, will aid the hospital's directors in determining the best means of remedying overcrowded conditions within the hospital. The returns will also serve as a guide in drawing up final plans for the hospital's expansion program that will enable it to meet adequately the constantly growing demands for health protection in the Lancaster area.
