same time, as the association is conscious of its moral ministry to the community, it also recognizes the spiritual ministry with which it is charged. In a time of moral and economic crisis the spiritual forces must remain strong. It was this factor that prompted the association's decision. Wherever it is possible the association will cooperate, but at the same time it cannot lose sight of its purpose and mission to God and the community.

Times call for a dynamic church program and the pastoral association of your community calls upon all of you to cooperate with the church in the same spirit as the church has declared its intention to cooperate in the fuel oil crisis.

to a call. At daybreak, Chief Wagner said the fire was extinguished but a guard is being maintained.

Many of the firemen suffered from the freezing weather. John Myers, a member of the Mt. Joy Fire Co., was given aid by Dr. David B. Schlosser, Mount Joy, when he was overcome by the cold. Chief Wagner suffered minor cuts on his hands when he was hit by a pane of glass which fell from the burning building.

Ex-Chief John J. Schroll of the Mount Joy Fire Co., was overcome by smoke. He was revived on the scene.

Several firemen directing hose lines froze to the ladders. They were assisted to the ground and to nearby homes where they changed clothing and returned to help fight the fire.

The severe cold broke hose couplings. The chemical engine of the Florin company was put out of commission and the pumper of the Friendship Fire Co., Elizabethtown, was disabled for a short time.

Residents in the vicinity of the warehouse served hot coffee to the firemen and opened their homes to provide warmth for those who were overcome by the cold.
