

OWL LAFFS

A WISE OWL

A Marietta street man was lawling his son out the other evening. He said: "You ought to be ashamed of yourself being so lazy. When George Washington was your age, he became a surveyor and was hard at work."

The son replied: "Yeah, and when he was your age he was president."

Because our next issue will be too late to warn you, beware of "lost" wallets, hats and other items conveniently placed for suckers to find. Next Thursday, April 1st, is April Fool's Day.

In a phone call to our office a man explained that his uncle had been a regular subscriber for half a century.

"He's always been a model of propriety—doesn't smoke or drink; never uses strong language and hasn't ever been to a theatre or the cinema," the nephew explained. "In fact, my uncle has absolutely no vices or excesses. And he's going to celebrate his 80th birthday tomorrow."

"How?" asked our clerk.

The young schoolteacher had just finished telling a small boy the story of a lamb that had strayed from the flock and been eaten by a wolf.

"You see," she said, "had the lamb been obedient and stayed in the flock, it would not have been eaten by the wolf, would it?"

"No, ma'am," answered the small boy. "It would have been eaten by us."

"That's logic."

"Bobby," said the teacher sternly, "you know that you have broken the eighth commandment by stealing John's apple?"

"Well, miss," replied the unrepentant boy, "I thought I might just as well break the eighth and have the apple as break the tenth and only covet it."

A fellow from Florin was telling me how dumb his neighbor is.

"What makes you think he is dumb?"

"Well, you know that poster down at the post office reading, 'Man Wanted for Robbery in Chicago?'"

"Yeah."

"He went in and applied for the job."

A cheap wrist watch had stopped ticking and the purchaser took it back to the jeweler who'd sold it to him to find out what caused the trouble. The jeweler took the back cover off it and poked around in the works. He found a dead bug.

"No wonder it doesn't work," he said sagely, "the engineer is dead."

A father and his daughter were held up by a masked bandit while driving the family nag to town. The father barely had time to whisper to his frightened daughter: "Hide your diamond bracelet in your mouth."

The bandit took everything he could find and drove off in their gig, but he didn't find the bracelet. When he was out of sight the farmer observed: "It's too bad we didn't bring Mama. We could have saved the horse and buggy."

Down at the Springs I overheard a Mama Bunny and her offspring having quite an argument. Finally the exasperated parent could stand it no longer.

"Okay," she said, "you were pulled out of a magician's hat. Now will you quit asking questions?" — She could have said the Easter Bunny brought her.

A parson had occasion to reprove a small boy for swearing.

"If you feel you must say something just say 'brother!'" he said. Your father doesn't swear, does he?"

"Oh, no, sir!"

"Well, then, if he were working in the garden and suddenly stepped backwards onto a rake which flew up and hit him from behind what

Which naturally brings to mind the two little girls who were discussing their families. "Why does your grandmother read the Bible so much?" asked one.

"I think," said the other little girl, that she is cramming for her finals." — These kids!

Not too long ago a high school class was asked to make up some original mathematics questions and the following is one they tell me was received —

"A" drinks 2 quarts of bourbon, proceeds home under 4 lbs. of his own steam, detouring around 6 telephone poles 88 times each, violently running into one 225 lb., 6 foot 3 inch patrolman at point X. "A" weighs 149 lbs. and is 5 foot 2 inches in height. Compute the area of the dark circles under A's eyes 24 hours later. — What's the answer?

A lady uptown was the recipient of a most novel and colorful St. Patrick's Day gift of which she's quite proud. It's a pair of bright red bloomers with green shamrocks on them. I'm not mentioning any name — but I can say the bloomers are extra large in size.

Here's a humorous little item one of our ex GIs told us about while reminiscing —

It had rained heavily all day and the camp was completely flooded. Going his rounds just before "lights out," the sergeant came upon two of his men washing in the flood water.

"Shame on you fellows," he bawled at them. His voice brought an officer on the scene.

"What's the 'trouble,' sergeant?" asked the officer.

"Why, these men are washing themselves in the water they are going to sleep in," was the disgusted reply. — Unsightly, ain't they?

REG'LAR FELLERS

THE LOW DOWN

HICKORY GROVE

For something refreshing, you know, I kinda believe it would be great to just squint over the front page of some morning, and not see a story there, where Uncle Sambo is fixing to dive into a few more million buck ventures, projects, uplifts, programs. That would be, sure as shootin', a novelty.

It will take a lot of different kinds of vitamins to get us back half-way on our feet and in fair health, once we discover and decide we are getting too near the money barrel bottom. Spending has gone chronic. There in Congress — also at the City Hall and Court House — we gotta tell 'em we have a wish for a change. We need a "New Look" in public officials. We need folks who savvy what 6 bits looks like and understand how sometimes, to get same, you may have to prespire a bit.

Tell 'em lots of other voters are commencing to get a little agitated 'bout, about this spending, and wondering where we will come out. That kind of talk will make them listen — voter talk.

It will be a great day — and refreshing — when more gent's in public office stand up and say, "no, boys, we can't do that — too expensive." Sisters and brothers, for a "New Look," that would be champion.

Yours with the low down,
JIMMY

MILLERSVILLE TEAM WINS CITY-COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

The championship of the second annual City and County Amateur Basketball Tournament Sunday was secure in Millersville, in possession of the Millersville Recreation Association's team.

The Millersville team, successors to the Mount Joy Legion, earned the title and the trophy, presented by the Lancaster Junior Chamber of Commerce, the sponsors, by downing RCA, 47 to 37, in the finals before several hundred fans at the Lancaster Armory Saturday night.

Third place in the tourney went to last year's champs, Mount Joy, who defeated the Quarryville Legion, 60 to 35, in a special consolation playoff preceding the title game. Mount Joy had been eliminated by Millersville, 65 to 55, in one semi-final game Saturday afternoon while Quarryville lost to RCA 45 to 37 in the other semi-final tilt.
