Process for Killing Turkeys Explained Proper Slaughtering And Bleeding Required

Before killing turkeys, as well as other fowl, see that they have access to water but no feed during the 12 to 18 hours prior to slaughtering.

and make one clean cut across the upper part of the throat just back of the junction of the head and neck, as shown in drawing.

Hold the turkey head down, with the beak open, until the blood is well started. With the left hand grasp the head in front of where the cut has been made to prevent the pressure of the fingers from checking the flow of blood.

When the blood is flowing freely, thrust the knife blade straight back on a line between the eyes and ears, through the cleft in the roof of the mouth and into the lower lobe of the brain.

M. Horst Endorses Chicken Contest

Miles Horst, State Secretary of Agriculture, urged poultry breeders of the State to enter the "Pennsylvania Chicken of Tomorrow" contest that is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Poultry Federation in an effort to produce a new or improved type of meat or dual purpose chicken that will put on the most weight in 13 weeks.

The effort indicates definite progress for Pennsylvania agriculture and suggests similar projects in other fields of farming, Secretary Horst declared.

In the search for a plump, heavy breed of chicken that can be raised to broiler or fryer weight with the least feed, the poultrymen's organization will provide incentive through awarding prizes in two classes. One class is for junior breeders, 20 years of age or under, the other for those over 20 years of age.

Hoey Heckenluber, Biglerville, president of the State Poultry Federation, has appointed the following judges to select winners and grand champions in the junior and senior classes: Harry H. Kauffman, poultry extension specialist, the Pennsylvania State College; E. J. Lawless, Jr., chief, division of eggs and poultry, Bureau of Markets, State Department of Agriculture, and Paul H. Margolf, professor of poultry husbandry, School of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania State College.

The general Pennsylvania Chicken of Tomorrow contest committee has as its chairman William H. Wilson, Lancaster, and the following members: V. A. Martin, adviser in agricultural education, State Department of Public Instruction; Raymond H. Miller, Lancaster R2; Frank H. Ellis, Elverson, secretary of the Federation; Floyd Wiltshire, McKeesport; T. E. Moncrief, Hanover; Mr. Lawless and Mr. Kauffman.

Soft Corn Requires Special Attention Several Methods Given For Profitable Feeding

Saving soft corn will be a problem facing many farmers this year. Much of the crop went in so late that frost became a factor in maturity, as well as in winter handling of the corn.

Next to chopping and feeding green, one of the best ways to get full value from soft corn is to cut immature crops out in pasture or on the farm.

Another method used by many growers in the last big soft corn year, 1945, was to build emergency cribs five to six feet wide. The farmers set two rows of poles in the ground, wired the tops together to keep the cribs from spreading, and fastened woven wire or slat cribbing on the inside of the posts.

Most hybrid corns are stiff stalked and have a good root system. They will stand with few fallen ears well into the winter. Since ears will dry with less spoilage on a standing stalk, many farmers prefer to let hogs, cattle or sheep harvest the crop.

Justin Morgan was the fountainhead of the first great family of American horses. The Morgan strain secured its name from the man who bred the original Morgan horse and owned him until late in 1875.

KNOW YOUR BREED Morgan Horse By W. J. DRYDEN

For 150 years Americans have been proud to claim Morgan blood in their horses. It implied energy, courage, bottom and excellent saddle horse. The breed is being perpetuated at the United States Morgan Horse Farm, Middlebury, Vt.

and controllability of the space heater have made it popular for between-season heating. If you are planning to build a new home or remodel your present home, you can enjoy the kind of heat you want at whatever time you want it whether you live in the city, in the suburbs, in the country or on a farm.

Herds and Flocks

Full pigs should be kept gaining from the start. If they stop gaining it is harder to get them started again, and it takes more feed. Don't let them lose their milk fat.

Set the posts at an angle and you can keep the weeds out with the mowing machine. Flush ewes before the breeding season—that is, feed them generously so they will be gaining at breeding time. Changing from scant to good pasture, or feeding some grain, will put the ewes in better condition.

At the same time and place there will be sold a Ford Coupe, Lot of Blacksmith and miscellaneous tools and equipment and household goods, including antique bureau and table, Columbian Range, practically new, 4 stoves, wood chest, kitchen cabinet, cooking utensils, chairs, carpet, some farm implements, and other miscellaneous items.

The real estate is sold under order of the Orphans' Court of Lancaster County, for payment of debts. Sale on premises No. 1, in Milton Grove, Saturday, April 17, 1948 at 2 o'clock P. M.

(From page 1) this case a committee of Club Leaders and the County Agent visit the member at the home and judge the animal and the club member's work.

Three county-wide breed clubs will be active this year in Lancaster County: the Ayrshire, Guernsey and the Holstein Clubs. All of these 4-H Clubs were started and are sponsored by the County Breed Associations. Club members may choose one of the above breeds for their project.

The Ayrshire Club will hold their organization meeting on Wednesday evening, April 14, at 8 p.m. in the Farm Bureau Building, 812 North Queen Street, Lancaster. The Club Leaders of this breed are Jacob S. Horst, Litzitz R3; and Abram Flory, Manheim R3.

The Guernsey Club will organize on Tuesday evening, April 6, at 8 p.m. in the West Lampeter High School at Lampeter with the two Club Leaders in charge: Hayes A. Hastings, Kirkwood; and Raymond F. Witmer, Willow Street, R1.

The Holstein Club will meet on Thursday evening, April 15, at 8 p.m. at the farm home of LeRoy Welk, Strasburg R1. The Club Leaders of this group are Earl L. Groff, Strasburg, R1; Wilbur J. Houser, Lampeter; and Clarence Lyons, Mount Joy, R1.

Interested youth may obtain further information by contacting any of the above Club Leaders and by attending the organization meeting of their breed.

FIXING UP the HOME By Diane Greeter

LP-GAS HOUSEHEATING

HAVE you ever wished for some method of taking the chill off the house, or perhaps, only a single room, in the morning or evening? Too often you find that ordinary sources of heat are so slow that the need has passed before warmth is obtained.

Gas, the fast, clean modern fuel, can solve this problem for you at comparatively small expense. A space heater or floor furnace faced with gas reaches peak heat-saving efficiency a few seconds after it is ignited. Temperatures can be regulated to suit needs and individual preferences.

Residents of the more temperate climates have found the space heater operated with liquefied petroleum gas—"tank" or "bottled" gas—ideal for home heating the year round. In other sections of the country the convenience and controllability of the space heater have made it popular for between-season heating. If you are planning to build a new home or remodel your present home, you can enjoy the kind of heat you want at whatever time you want it whether you live in the city, in the suburbs, in the country or on a farm.

STOP USING LIGHTS About April 1, days are long enough to stop using lights in the laying house. C. O. Dossin, extension poultry specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, suggests tapering off in use of lights. Start them about a half hour later for a few days until starting time coincides with daylight.

Herds and Flocks on Successful Farms

Feed bunks for cattle should be 30 inches high for mature stock and 20 inches for calves. Allow 30 inches of trough length for each grown animal, 20 for each calf. Make the grain and silage bunk three feet wide for feeding from both sides.

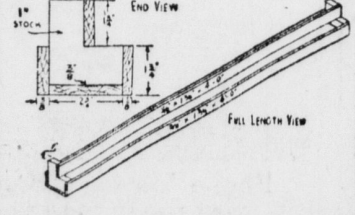

Well-conditioned ewe that should cause no trouble.

Lousy cows, when freed from lice, give 10 per cent to 15 per cent more milk, according to Michigan State college. This means the equivalent of another cow in a herd for $1, by controlling lice. In winter, which is a bad time for cattle lice, apply a powdered louse killer containing DDT and repeat the application in 10 to 14 days.

Early spring litters of pigs do poorly unless the brood sow has an abundant supply of milk at farrowing time.

Baby Chick Feeders

Preventing waste of feed is always important. Easily-built feeders of wood will help prevent waste of feed. This Washington State college design can be built at little cost. It will serve 100 chicks for their first 10 days.

New Poison Reported More Potent Than DDT An insect poison four times as potent as DDT against certain insects has been discovered. Called synklor, it is particularly powerful against such household pests as roaches, ants, moths and carpet beetles. Hordes of grasshoppers in recent years also have proved to this new chemical. It has proven effective for hard-to-kill German roach as well as weevils, aphids, lice and ticks.
