EDITORIAL

With all these rumors of war we think it would be better, safer and more sensible to dig caves than a garden.

A Federal Grand Jury, now investigating, already learned of the illegal sale of passports to Chinese and others at New York and Philadelphia ports. What next!

The great trouble with our National debt is that it's on the up and up.

We, for one, are not in favor of "an eye for an eye" and a "tooth for a tooth". The only ones benefited are the oculist and the dentist.

Another illustration of "you can never tell just when might be implicated" came to light last week. Now it has been made known that George J. Malen, former Special Chief Deputy Attorney General assigned to the State Banking Department; received the major portion of the $22,478.18 in dividends withheld from B. & L. shareholders at Philadelphia. It was paid to him thru "Stooges."

COMES APRIL

A bracing spring day is a stimulant that sets fancy to roaming the open places. It may be the sight of a winding stream, a budding tree, a photo in magazine or paper that rouses the yearning to tramp thru woods. The scent of ground after showers, the sight of farmer preparing to work fields, brings a thrill. We get flowers in April, skunk cabbage, crocuses, forsythia, coltsfoot, and trees blossom as well, as the willow and maple and some of the birch. Winds more gentle, showers of mildness, flowers of soft color, man feels with quickening pulse and gladdened eye.

Approximately 150 trees were reported dead or dangerous on the streets of Lancaster. Immediately the matter was referred to the Shade Tree Commission there.

At the regular meeting of Mount Joy Boro Council a member reported a number of trees thruout our boro in bad shape. Council had so much other business that the matter was overlooked.

Not many people may know it but we have a Tree Commission in Mt. Joy. At least we have an ordinance to that effect but just when the last commission was named scarcely any one will be able to say.

MAN TAKING OVER NATURE

This business of sowing dry ice on clouds for man-made rain, is running into difficulties. Maybe one fellow wants rain for dry crops and his next door neighbor plans to hold a family picnic in the yard. Our water law states that "water on all sources of supply within the boundaries of the state, either above or beneath the surface of the ground, belongs to the public". Some contend that "above the ground" means water content of clouds, but perhaps legislators who formed the water law didn't expect folks to produce rain artificially. Clouds move about, so that a man wonders if they might come under the jurisdiction of the Inter-state Commerce Commission. In order to protect us from suits, it is now authorized that the U. S. Weatherman is the only one who is permitted to make rain. Remember, the sky is not the limit.

OF THE HARVEST

As they plant the proposed nine million more acres of farm crops this summer than last year, we think ahead to the harvest. It means a larger work force and farmers are wondering where will come the extra hands needed by mid-summer. During the war the government paid the cost of transporting housing of foreign workers. This is no longer true and those who wish to import foreign labor for harvesting, must pay transportation, provide sanitary housing, post bond for payment of wages, return the worker to the place where he was hired in his own land. In the southwest the Mexican laborer followed the maturing crops. Along the Atlantic seaboard labor from the British West Indies did the same. Agricultural workers may be as last year, but perhaps, with the additional planting, farmers will have to depend on high school and college students, to lend a hand.

HUNGER

Hunger has long been a contributing factor to revolution, helps foment anarchy, strengthens dictatorship. Asia has been noted for its areas where hunger has always been suffered, but today this condition has spread widely into Europe. Between 20 and 30 per cent of the world's people don't have enough to eat. Yet we in the U. S. and in some other countries, are eating up to 15 per cent more than before the war.

They tell us that hunger is not necessary because science, in its way, can show us how to extract from soil, all that is needed for the well-being and health of everyone who inhabits this world. However, though science can instruct in production, this is not the answer to the present problem of hunger. We must give immediate relief and direct relief. There is hope and comfort in the visualization of a world at peace, with nations co-operating politically and economically with science to offer its resources for the common good. Perhaps, if the world knew no hunger the world's peoples would know no war. What if all countries would work towards this end, instead of the chaotic state of siege and fury.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

Well aware of the large number of former service men and women to avail themselves of education, through the GI Bill of Rights, we overlook the Army's program of continued training for those still in service. A popular program during the war, interest lagged shortly afterwards but has revived, and today there are more service men taking advantage of the correspondence, self-teaching courses and group study classes at local posts, camps and over-seas stations, than during the war.

There are 400 courses in elementary high school, vocational, technical and college fields. During off-duty, the "service students" are encouraged to attend near-by colleges and schools, with the Army paying 75 per cent of the tuition. If you wonder whether these courses really pay their way, consider that during the past five years 750,000 soldiers have received high school diplomas. Also, over two million service men and women have received academic credit for courses taken under the Army plan. With the help of the American Council of Education, specific standards are set and the serviceman's work is recognized by practically every state education department, colleges and universities.

Young people seem more conscious of the importance of education and it is well that those in service, at home or overseas, can have the opportunity to continue study. It is wise for the army of a nation to raise its educational level.

Week's Best Recipe:

Baked Tuna with Cheese: 4 T of butter, 4 T flour, 3-4 T salt, pepper, 1-2 t Worcestershire sauce, 2 c milk, 1 c grated cheese, 2 pimentos, 1 1/2 ounce can tuna fish. Melt butter, stir in flour and seasonings and when well blended, stir in the milk gradually. Stir over a low fire until thick and smooth. Stir in cheese and cook over low fire until melted. Cut six strips of pimento and reserve for garnishing. Cut remaining pimento into small pieces and add to white sauce. Pour mixture into greased baking dish, arrange strips of pimento on top and bake in a moderate oven, 15 minutes.

Planting Notes:

Sow peas and spinach as soon as the ground can be worked, but keep rest of vegetables to plant when ground is thoroughly warm.

Sweet peas should be sown as early as possible, in soil prepared for them last fall. Plant in trenches about five inches deep cover seeds with one to two inches of soil. Fill in trench gradually as vines grow.

Vines, profuse in growth as clematis, bittersweet and trumpet, are better thinned before growth begins. Also, prune late blooming shrubs, but don't do so with lilac or forsythia or you will lose some of this year's flowers.

Veronicas, fall asters and some other perennials, might need to be cut apart at this time. They will be for better plants.

Using Kerosene:

To clean painted furniture, add a little kerosene to water with which you are washing it. To clean porcelain, dissolve 1/2 cup of soap flakes in hot water and add a little kerosene for cleaning.

Clean brass by scrubbing it with kerosene. At least once a month pour a cupful of kerosene down the sink, at night, then in the morning flush with two gallons of boiling water. This keeps pipes from being stopped with grease.

When washing windows, add a little kerosene to the water to give the windows an added polish.

Inspirational:

If money be not thy servant, it will be thy master. The covetous man can not so properly be said to possess wealth, as that may be said to possess him. —Bacon.

POTATO DISCOLORED

When seed potatoes are cut for planting this year, brown discolorations starting at the stem-end and running through the tuber may be seen. These may have been caused by vine killer used on the crop last fall.

SAVE FRUIT TREES

Make prompt repair of damage done to fruit trees by ice storms.

last winter. Many of the limbs split apart can be trussed back in to position with eye bolts and short strands of wire. Grafting wax protects and helps to heal fractures. Patronize Bulletin advertisers.
