News From Florin

(From Page 1)

Lice Inflict Heavy Damage on Cattle

DDT Treatment Cuts High Winter Losses

Lice are injurious to all types of cattle. Animals produce less meat and milk if lice are unchecked. Young animals and poorly-nourished old animals suffer most from lice.

The winter season is the time lice are bad on cattle. The loose population builds up then. Dr. Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State college, says one louse unchecked in fall means 1,000 the following March.

For lice control on cattle, DDT is being used successfully. Early in fall, before cold weather arrives, it is mixed with water and sprayed on the animals. After cold weather comes, a DDT dust is recommended.

Farmers are being advised to use a dust containing 10 per cent DDT. Some of the powdered louse killers on the market contain less than 10 per cent DDT, but have other effective insecticides combined with the DDT.

The rotenone dusts recommended for cattle grub control can be used for lice control. Usually they are diluted for lice, to cover greater area and reduce the cost. For instance, one pound of a cattle grub dust containing 1 1/2 per cent rotenone can be mixed with two pounds of flour to make an effective louse killer.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Beilman and son, Bob, of California, arrived on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Beilman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skeen on South Market street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mumper and Mrs. J. B. Eshbach spent Tuesday at Campbelltown visiting Mrs. Ellen Neidigh.

Mrs. Katie Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. John Eichler, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hess and two sons, spent the week-end at the former's camp in Perry county.

World's Largest Potato Yard Found in Chicago

An average of 20,000 carloads of potatoes are handled annually. Many thousands of tons of other vegetables also pass through this yard.

The yard is the central marketing point for potatoes, which come in from virtually every state in the union. Dealers and brokers assemble in the yard each day before dawn to buy, sell or reconsign an average of 36,000 bushels daily. The Wood street yard is a far cry from the wooden platform which served as a terminal years ago.
