EDITORIAL

When you borrow money, the rate of interest is usually rather high.

The only reason some fellows remain honest is because they are afraid to take a chance on being crooked.

When a person throws care to the winds, the winds often blow it all back again and right into one's face at that.

GOVERNMENT TO BLAME
Moonshining is on the increase in Pennsylvania and from what we can learn the Government is to blame. There were twenty-nine arrests in the state during September against seven during the same period last year.

The excessive high prices caused by the tax, practically forces the guys who can't afford to buy liquor, to seek other channels.
This naturally encourages moonshining.

DON'T GIVE UP, YET
Sub-freezing temperatures, killing frosts, blasts of frigid air, and parts of the country feel that somebody forgot to close nature's icebox door. But, in the face of such cold waves, winter gives us some lee-way, and we have more of those crisp, ideal fall days. Leaves are rapidly falling, lots of trees are bare right now. But on some still cling the gold, red, yellow, purple and green foliage, to prove winter hasn't arrived as yet. Some of our finest autumn weather comes after that spell of frigid air from the Arctic regions, that spills over Mount Joy.

AS IT SHOULD BE
Synthetic tires that wear 30 per cent longer than natural rubber are now being made in steadily greater volume, and tire makers predict that eventually your car tires may outlast your car.
That is as it should be. As there are now fourteen million cars over 10 yrs. old, bringing the U. S. total to an all-time high, we can see no good reason, at today's car prices, why the tires on a car shouldn't last as long as any other part of that vehicle.

There is scarcely a machine on the market today, any portion of which wears as rapidly as automobile tires.

MENTAL ILLNESS
Mental illness is a subject that used to be hush-hush, in the old days. When it happened in a family, it was considered a disgrace, in many instances. We discuss more freely and treat more intelligently today, the dangers and problems of mental illness. It needs great understanding and is a serious disease that is spreading. By being more aware of its meaning, we are learning of the lack of facilities for treatment of those mentally ill. There is much to be done. As complex as is this body, with disorders of lungs, heart, teeth, eyes, limbs, liver, stomach and so on, is it not surprising that the brains not more often affected? About one-seventeenth of the population of the U. S. is believed to belong in institutions or confined in them. Then, hadn't we better be doing something about it?

WHAT IS THE SOLUTION?
That meat prices have dropped, is probably but a temporary decline and the present cost is still too high. Indications are that 1919 will not find more of a supply of meat than this year, and this year the supply hasn't equalled the demand. So, they figure, unless the demand is less, the meat price will remain high. The solution? Demand less. Consumers hold the power to affect market prices. By buying less, they create a surplus. Then if they resume buying, ON A RESTRICTED BASIS, the prices can be held low. But the trouble is, that when we have a buyer's strike, for this is what it amounts to, we don't have enough people reducing their buying. It takes almost every buyer, to make an effect on the market price. When we go with at the beef roast this week, next week we buy an especially large one to make up for doing without and perhaps at the same cost. This is almost certain to happen, if the meat price has dropped slightly within that week. As a nation of individualists, who are not apt to stand together in a buyer's strike, it seems the only other way is to bring the supply up to meet the demand, rather than bring the demand down to meet the supply. However, if all prices decline, meat will be among them. If bumper grain crops have as much effect on production, as we hope, then probably this will be the solution. It's a guess.

Kraybill Church Bldg.

When necessary.

More than 450 persons attended the closing service Sunday afternoon in the Mother Church of the congregation.

A history of the church building which dates to 1812 and of the congregation was given by Ira D. Landis, Litzitz and Joseph Nissley. Altoona, gave reminiscences about the church and congregation. The Rev. Garber spoke on The Forward Look.

Rev. Garber explained that the church was built in 1808, after a lot of members had moved into town. The trend toward the town church has continued which was the reason for the decision to close the Kraybill Church.

Memorials New Church
Mr. M. B. Frynsinger, near town, a consistent reader of the Bulletin, brought us the following clipping that was taken from the Middletown Journal, giving a complete account of the dedication of this church which took place Sunday, August 28, 1888.

A day to be remembered, not only by the Mennonites, but also by others who were present at the dedicatory services of the new large Mennonite church at Kraybill's Sunday, August 28, 1888.

The day was a typical one, the sun being partly obscured, and a cool air was blowing, both adding to the comforts of the hundreds of people present on this occasion.

Although the exercises were announced to begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at noon already, the people began to come, many walking, while vehicles in strings of half dozens, and more could be seen rapidly approaching on the five public highways, which converge near the church. In an hour's time the house was filled to its utmost, and many who came later were obliged to remain on the outside.

The services began a half hour earlier than the appointed time, and were opened by Rev. Benjamin Lehman, of Manor township, who announced a German hymn. Bishop Zimmerman, of Shiremanstown, Cumberland county, requested the singing of an English hymn by Watts, entitled, "The Sure Foundation," the entire congregation joining, using the Mennonite hymnal, which had previously been distributed upon every seat. After the singing of this most appropriate hymn, Rev. Ephraim Nissley, the present minister in charge, asked for the singing of the following beautiful stanzas from the pen of T. Hastings, entitled: "A prayer for a church newly organized:"

In solemn covenant now to join
Unite them in thy holy fear,
And in thy love their hearts combine.

Oh, give this church a large increase of such as thou wilt own and bless
Lord, fill their hearts with joy and peace,
And clothe them with thy righteousness.

Make here a garden wall'd with grace,
A temple built for God below,
Where thy blest saints may see thy face;

And fruits of thy bliss'd Spirits grow.
Rev. Nissley then spoke in German, giving a short account of the building of this new house, referring in terms of highest and warmest praise the kindly and generous spirit, which prompted not only the members of their church, but also those of other denominations, to give freely much needed assistance; of the perfect harmony which characterized the work done from the beginning to completion of the building. Concluding his remarks as follows: "In the name of the Almighty God and his son, Jesus Christ, we have assembled here this day to dedicate this building to the service of these divine beings."

By request the congregation knelt and silent prayers were offered. The following ministers were also present: Revs. Jacob Newcomer, of Manor; Henry Longenecker, Sa-lunga; Levi Ebersole, Elizabethtown; Benjamin Lehman, Milton Grove, and Joseph Ebersole, of Lawn, Lebanon county.

The house has, ordinarily, a seating capacity of 800, but with benches in the aisles and anti-rooms to the rear of the pulpit, 355 more can be accommodated. It is estimated that there were at least a thousand persons on the outside. At 3 o'clock by actual count 737 conveyances were hitched in the two hitching enclosures by the roadside and adjoining fields. Abraham Eshleman of near Lancaster, read in English the first six verses of the third chapter of Paul's epistle to the Hebrews, the next text chosen being the 4th verse, as follows: "For every house is builded by some man; but he that buildeth all things is God." Bishop Jacob W. Brubaker then arose and preached a most impressive sermon in English from that text, exhorting and admonishing during the space of an hour. He was followed by Bishop Zimmerman, who also spoke in English, after which Bishop Martin Rutt made a few remarks in German. Prayer followed by Bishop Brubaker, after which the congregation sang the Doxology, concluding the services.
