EDITORIAL

About the only face value that anyone accepts nowadays is a pretty girl.

Too many people forget that free speech does not mean a free-for-all argument.

RADIO SITTERS

Today's baby sitters have competition. Right here in little old Mt. Joy a girl applied for baby sitting with the understanding that she answers all radio inquiries on the telephone for exactly one-half the prize money. You can't call a girl like that a dumb-bell and what surprises us most is that she can't hold or get a better job than minding kids.

WEC IS TO BLAME

Yesterday a Buckeye commentator on our radio said that numerous manufacturers of farm machinery, particularly tractors, distribute their products to dealers all over the United States. They ship light tractors to sections where there is no demand or sale. They also ship heavy tractors to sections where they are not used.

Then along comes the grey marketer, buys these surplus tractors, takes them to an adapted section and gets a big price.

And there you are Mr. Farmer. We will let you judge who is responsible for the high prices on tractors.

THE COUNTRY HAS ITS CHARM

You dwell in the city and yearn for fresh air, space and the so-called free country life. The man who lives on the farm often wishes for the social and cultural advantages offered by the city. In a recent study made by the Agricultural Committee of Congress, there is a locking ahead to 1975. It is predicted that by then, more city workers will live in the country and, by that time farmers will have more of the advantages of city life. Efficiency and good business methods must be used by farmers, if they hope to keep up with this contest, though. The population of the nation is expected to increase 15 to 20 per cent more consumers, but farm equipment will raise output 50 percent more than at present, the report states. The cattle & for the small one-family farm is not so good, but there will be a rise in the number of large, commercially operated agricultural set-ups. It seems to put further stock in the story that the one family farm is slowly being absorbed, and that is saddening to those of us brought up on those kind of farms around Mount Joy.

But, as they constantly warn us—Time Marches On.

MAN WITHOUT JUDGMENT

Man errs in judgment many times in his life, but it may be said in his favor, he has judged through his error prevents his judgment else. The accidents caused by drunken drivers are examples of what havoc when man's judgment is gone. An automobile wheel in the hands of a drunkard is more dangerous a weapon than a loaded gun. The sense of power goes to the befuddled head. Without sense of timing, of direction, of speed, the destiny of others hangs in the balance. No matter with what care you drive, you and those with you, are at his mercy. Without judgment the drunken man is without mercy. He is a threat that gives no warning, a menace you sometimes can't avoid. The fines, imprisonment, loss of driver's license, haven't kept people from driving cars, when intoxicated.

In Mount Vernon, Ohio, the mayor, serving as judge, fined a drunken driver, $500. All brought before him on the same charge, were to receive the same fine. For 72 days since the first $500 fine was imposed, there were no arrests made on this charge. This is not a heavy penalty when dealing with murder, but it may serve to curb the drinker, and remind him of the cost of losing judgment.

WHY TRUMAN WON

While President Truman's victory last Tuesday was such a surprise to many, and still is, to the writer is as simple as a 15-story brick building on a field with absolutely nothing to obstruct its view.

One must not forget that it was the laboring class who aided the late President Roosevelt to his political success. Democratic leaders profited thereby and without making much of a hullabaloo, they issued orders and then insisted that they be carried out.

Throughout the country the Democratic strategists sent 1,000 man squads of political workers into the streets of the large cities where labor predominates. These men were sent out at night after night immediately preceding the election. And their mission was not a request. No, it was made far more emphatic. Many of the unions gave men to understand that unless they REGISTERED and TURNED OUT TO VOTE their job hung in the balance. It is needless to tell you how well they followed orders. Leading labor leaders claim they defeated 89 percent of the men they opposed.

On the other hand many thought Dewey's election was in the bag and wouldn't even vote. To substantiate this statement, right here in Mount Joy we know of at least half a dozen office holders—neither they or their wives came near the polls.

Now they are sorry, so what. And that, folks, easily explains the result of last week's election.

REAL MONOPOLY

One of the principal business newspapers of the country recently had this to say about late developments in the soft coal industry: One man—Mr. Lewis is in complete command of his union—intends to say how much coal shall be produced. He states the proposition with frankness and without the least hint of apology. He apparently thinks he ought to have that power.

The way to avoid these situations is to apply the same anti-monopoly rules to labor unions as are applied to the operators of trade and industry. The incident which brought out this comment had to do with Mr. Lewis' apparent determination to tell the miners how many days a week they ought to work. And that is just one more of the many examples that could be cited of Mr. Lewis' monopoly powers over a great industry which supplies a product absolutely essential to the welfare and economic strength of this country. If, for example, the coal operators shut down their mines and told consumers to go hang because they weren't satisfied with conditions, the government would act with the speed of lightning. Every relevant statute would be used to punish the offenders. Yet Mr. Lewis still seems to have the authority to determine how much or how little coal will be mined, and to dictate almost every phase of the industry's operations.

The gains Mr. Lewis' union has made for the miners are one thing. The possession of life and death power over a vital resource is a very different thing indeed. It is apparent that we have permitted the building up of a labor monopoly which can undermine the strength of the nation. That would never be permitted if it were done by industry. It must not be permitted when it is done by labor.

NEW TURNPIKE BRIDGE WILL CROSS AT STEELTON

The Pa. Turnpike Commissioner announced Monday that present plans for the bridge across the Susquehanna for the eastern extension of the Super-highway will enter the southern edge of Steelton just north of Motor Street.

The Turnpike will continue to the east from Steelton and across Swartz Creek between Middleton and Hummelstown.

The over-water portion of the bridge will be a high level, short-span structure with 35 piers spaced 120 feet apart. The structure also will pass over the southern end of Calver Island about mid-stream.

MORE LIKE A DOLL THAN A REAL BABY

The smallest baby ever born at the Lancaster General Hospital just saw the light of day Thursday. She is Cynthia Anne Sherrard, Lancaster and weighs two pounds and three ounces. Her foot prints are smaller than her mother's thumb.

HAPPENINGS — of — LONG AGO

John F. Peifer and wife of Salunga were entertained to a surprise party in honor of their 41st anniversary.

The last 19 days of October were real fall days with snow flurries. Mr. and Mrs. Israel Wertz have celebrated their golden anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sheaffer entertained the choir of the Evangelical Church to a Halloween Party.

The American Legion arranged an Armistice Day program which was held in the High School auditorium.

Knights of Malta Lodge held a fourth annual masquerade party in the Hall Building.

Ten dozen eggs were stolen from the storage room of Mussler Brothers poultry farm.

Several farmers in eastern Lancaster Co., sold their 1928 tobacco crop for 18 and 5 cents.

How To Get Action

our boro. If accepted Council must grade, improve and repair the streets and alleys thereon, extend the water main, install fire hydrants, add street lights and care for all surface drainage.

That, naturally, is quite an expense. At present there are no buildings thereon and the only way in which the boro could be reimbursed is thru taxes. If half a dozen ordinary dwellings were erected thereon it would take many years before the boro would be repaid.

The fairest way to all concerned would be for those who seek admission to show their sincerity by at least partly improving said tracts or even streets or alleys.

This article was written, not as a "dig" at any individual, corporation or company, but as general information for any person or persons interested.

Here's what prompted us at this particular time. In the boro of New Holland a manufacturing firm, Frank Ix & Sons, Inc., at the regular meeting of that boro's Council, asked that body to annex a plot of over eight acres. The firm was willing to lay a 6-inch cast iron water main the entire length of the plot, 970 feet; install three fire hydrants, lay a 10-inch sewer line the entire length in line with all present standards of development as required by the boro, deed to the boro a 35-ft. wide modern paved street. All the work to be done under Boro supervision but at absolutely not one cent of expense to said Boro.

It is needless to say New Holland accepted the proposition immediately and had an ordinance prepared covering the situation.

If any of our outlying districts are desirous of enjoying our boro's advantages, they could get quick action if they would proceed same as did the firm at New Holland.

Kauffman Keller's E. Hempf'd School

Personally, I am a great believer in the efficacy of the smaller towns and cities in holding high the torch of American freedom and spirit. I cherish too the fact that I was born and reared in such a wholesomeness where everybody you know everyone else and where one's actions are known, appraised and cause-and-effect are quickly discernible. I often wish my boys had been reared in just such a community.

I was delighted to see the progressive and up-to-date condition of our schools and it was heart-warming to see even the township schools with bands, majorettes and above all the inspiring sight of the principals and teachers marching in that parade with their classes.

It is such fidelity and devotion to duty that is the underlying ground work of character and stability in our country.

To say that my heart was warmed is perhaps putting it mildly. I was emotionally aroused and am afraid I couldn't collect myself sufficiently to deliver the kind of remarks the people may have expected from me. My heart was too full to allow my mind to labor out a speech.

I know events like this can not happen in our country unless you are all directing the plans and getting people thoroughly acquainted with the objectives and desires. I know that to you goes a great deal of credit and to the splendid committee you organized and the wholehearted effort you and your committee put back of this welcome.

I remember very vividly the day I went to work in your office the day my father sold you that pair of sorrel horses; the day I went to work in the kitchen and all plants you were instrumental in bringing to Mt. Joy and so ably guided and directed. To see you in your later years with that very same vigor, youthful spirit and enthusiasm was one of the highlights of my reception in Mt. Joy.

I think too it was gracious of you to share the occasion with Lancaster, where I enjoyed the luncheon very much; but the thing that will remain with me perhaps the longest is the warm personal hand clasp that the people I grew up with gave me. I am proud of the town and happy I come from it.

The watch on my arm and the silver bowl in my dining room are constant reminders of the friendship of Mount Joy and Lancaster County and I hope I can always live and control my actions so that you will never regret giving me this warm reception.

Yours very sincerely
K. T. KELLER

SIGHT OF EYE RETURNS AFTER BLOW ON HEAD

Last August, for some undetermined reason, the sight of one eye gradually diminished to the point of nearly total blindness for Frank Prescott of Bainbridge. At the time, Prescott was residing at White Marsh, Md., only recently having returned to live in Bainbridge, his home town.

Last Sunday during moving operations, he was occupied in the attic of his White Marsh home and struck his head a severe blow on a rafter. Next morning he awoke to find the sight in the affected eye just about completely back to normal. Previously, specialists had told Prescott the nerve was affected, causing the loss of sight.
