Brief News From The Dailies For Quick Reading

At Timonium, Md., a Hereford bull was sold for $3,000. Prices of the 1949 Cadillac and Buick cars have been increased. Pauline Lucas, Waynesboro, had the hiccoughs continually for 268 days. It is said that in the United States one person out of every five owns a car. A toy balloon sent aloft at Lancaster came to earth after traveling seventy miles. Do you know that the average housewife washes 2,500,000 dishes in a lifetime, or seventy-two stacks as high as the Empire State Building. Just after the striking shore went back to work, 3,500 teamsters in New York City went out on strike. Who said the Taft-Hartley law forbids strikes?

Research Improves Average Crop Yield Better Machinery and Fertilizer Aid Advance

Farms now are growing about a third more crops than in 1920 and getting the job done in about 10 per cent less time, according to U. S. Department of agriculture statistics. Several factors have made this record possible. One has been the research work of plant breeders in developing heavier yielding, hardier varieties of corn, small grains, root crops, legumes and vegetables. Another is the improvement in machines that helps farmers do more work in a day. A third has been the increasing use of commercial fertilizer and a better knowledge of how to use it. Even with increasing use of fertilizer, the bigger per acre yields from improved crop varieties are being obtained at the expense of the soil's plant food and organic matter supply, warns Middle West Soil Improvement committee. "Unless this drain is offset by fertility building practices that put back needed nutrients and replenish organic matter," the committee says, "worn out soils and lower yields will be the eventual result on millions of farms."

TWO HUNTERS FOUND BODY DEAD FOR ABOUT A YEAR

The bullet-scarred skeleton of a man was found Saturday by two hunters in the wooded section of Turkey Hill, at Cresswell, a short distance south of Washington boro. Nearly all the flesh had disappeared from the skeleton. Two holes believed made by a bullet, were found in the skull. A .22 calibre rifle was found with the body. Some paper money was also found in the pockets of his clothing which was in shreds. An effort is now being made to identify the body.

TREAT SHEEP FOR TICKS

Use 4 pounds of 50 per cent DDT wettable powder in 100 gallons of water forced into the fleece with a driving spray for control of sheep ticks, says S. G. Gesell, Penn State extension entomologist, or dust with 1 per cent rotenone dust or 5 per cent DDT dust. Treat before cold weather arrives.

The first co-operative dairy in America was established in Orange county, New York, in 1856.

Weddings Thruout Our Community During Past Week

Dorothy V. Weaver, J. Melvin Heller. Miss Dorothy V. Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob C. Weaver, Rohrerstown, and J. Melvin Heller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. Heller, Mount Joy R2, were married Sunday at 4 p. m. at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. Frank C. Torrey. After a reception at the General Sutter, Hotel, Litz, for the immediate families the couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the New England States. They will reside at the home of the bridegroom. The bride is a graduate of the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, class of 1948, and is on duty at the Lancaster Osteopathy Hospital. The bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Lutheran Church

That was in the Detwiler name for many years. The lot is the V on the northeast corner of Main and Manheim streets and the improvements are a two family frame dwelling and a barber shop now occupied by Joseph Detwiler. The property was withdrawn at public sale at a bid of $3,850.00. A short time later that same evening it was sold privately by Mr. Frank to the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church, represented by a committee including the pastor Rev. Koder. The price was $3,900.09. This gives the church possession and ownership of all the property on the 3 triangle to the eastern boundary of the church lawn, including a lengthy frontage on Main street. We understand there will be no immediate change in the properties but the new purchase will enable the church to make very marked improvements at some future date. Mr. C. S. Frank called both the above sales and Claude S. Zeller was the clerk.

MARKET FALL HONEY

Full - produced comb honey should be marketed before the Spring crop, if any is left, since it usually crystallizes more quickly, says W. W. Clarke, extension agriculturist of the Pennsylvania State College. Keep it stored in a dry place with a temperature of about 70 degrees Fahrenheit until marketed.

LIMIT FEED BUYING

Because feed prices may drop, farmers are urged to keep feed purchase commitments to a short-term basis. W. F. Johnstone, extension agricultural economist of the Pennsylvania State College, reports that December usually is the month of heaviest flow of corn into the grain markets.

CONTROL RATS ON FARM

Rats move into farm buildings for feed and shelter with approach of cold weather. This is the time to kill them with poison bait, reminds J. O. Pepper, Penn State extension entomologist. Every rat killed is worth $3 in saved feed and food.

STORE ROOT CROPS

The winter supply of root crops may be stored in a trench in a well-drained spot, says J. O. Dutt, Penn State extension vegetable specialist. Fill the trench with roots, cover with hay, straw, or leaves, and then with soil. Add more layers as needed. Mormans in the state of Utah were the first Anglo-Saxons to practice irrigation on a large scale.

Wheat Yield Boosted Through Fertilization Gains in Indiana Tests Exceed Seven Bushels

Fertilizing wheat paid dividends in crop increases averaging seven to nine and one-half bushels per acre, Purdue university research men revealed in announcing results of 1947 studies conducted in 15 Indiana counties. Wheat yields increased seven bushels per acre when fertilizer applications averaged from 150 to 300 pounds per acre. When the plant food treatment was boosted to 300 to 400 pounds per acre, average production gains of nine and one-half bushels were obtained. Demonstrations with wheat started on various soil types last fall showed somewhat similar results, according to the Purdue research men. When 165 pounds of 0-12-12 was applied on six southern Indiana upland soils, increases of five bushels per acre resulted. When the application was doubled, yield increases averaged seven bushels per acre. "Applications of 300 to 350 pounds of 3-12-12 are being recommended for wheat on practically all upland silt or clay loam soils and for sandy loams," says a statement by the Purdue agronomy department. "If the 3-12-12 cannot be obtained, then 2-12-6 is a good substitute for the wheat crop itself. The additional potash in the 3-12-12, however, is especially important for the clover and corn crops following the small grain."

Nearly a million tractors today are in action on farms in the 18 cotton-producing states, saving time and labor in nearly every phase of cotton production. The invasion of machinery into the South's white cotton fields is eliminating the back-breaking task of producing the cotton crop. Man's mechanical helpers achieve in a few hours what formerly took days of costly human labor. For example, the flame cultivator, attached to a tractor, removes grass and weeds from the field at one-tenth the former cost. An experiment in the coastal plains area of North Carolina showed that while 118 man hours are required to produce an acre of cotton by the old man-mule methods, use of two-row tractor equipment, mechanical choppers, flame cultivators and machine pickers cuts the man-hour requirements to 17.7 per acre. Machines capable of harvesting a bale of cotton in slightly more than an hour are now a reality instead of a remote possibility. While the average hand-picked gatherer about 15 pounds of seed cotton an hour, a single mechanical picker in the same field harvests about 1,500 pounds in 2 hours, 20 minutes. Thus, the mechanical harvester accomplishes the work of 40 to 50 human pickers.

Machinery Is Revamping Farming in Cotton Belt

Internal parasites loot farmers of huge toll. Few criminals ever dream of committing a 125 million dollar robbery. But that's the amount in internal parasites steal from the U. S. livestock industry every year. Because the parasites are hidden, the farmer never will see the thieves at work. However, they keep right on causing losses day and night. Parasites cause diseased animals, and poultry to eat more grain and other feeds than healthy stock eat. They stunt the growth of young animals and sometimes kill them. Affected animals generally bring lower prices when shipped to market. Internal parasites can be controlled. Phenothiazine, carbon tetrachloride, hexachloroethane, sodium fluoride and carbon disulfide are used to fight certain types of parasites. The advice of a local veterinarian should be secured to determine the proper method of treatment.

Spoilage of Stored Grain Hinges on Bin's Condition

Grain can be stored almost indefinitely with little deterioration in farm-type bins — those that hold 1,000 to 3,000 bushels — if the bins are kept dry, cool and free of insects, according to the USDA. For control of insect infestation, chief reliance must be placed on fumigation. Shelled corn has been stored for several years with a loss of less than 1 per cent, according to official reports.
