Farmers Take Long Look at 1949 In Making Plans for Extra Cash

By IRA MILLEN Farm Electrification Bureau

What should the farmer do with his boom time profits? Invest in more land, put his excess cash in the bank or spend it to raise his family's standard of living? These questions are uppermost in the minds of many working hours.

The Agricultural Committee on National Policy advises the farmer to fix up the home place, improve the house as well as the barn and give mother, the children and himself a break.

WHILE THEY WORK—Farmers are planning for 1949.

farm families as they take a long penetrating look into 1949.

For most of them, 1948 was a great year. Collectively, they had an estimated gross income of about $41,200,000,000—the highest on record. Unless all studies go astray, it will be $1,600,000,000 more than in 1947. Farmers, as a class, are "in the money." And here's what the experts have to say about the situation:

"Many farm people of the United States are in better financial condition than they ever have been. Their

Elevator Will Serve Many Uses on Farm

Conveyors Eliminate 'Back-Breaking' Chores

Elevators are becoming as common on farms as they are in city department stores. They are, however, of a different kind—and not used for the same purposes. Unless, of course, city stores have started conveying farm produce from the sidewalk into ninth or tenth story "mows."

Farmers began to think seriously about elevators and conveyors during the last war, and they've been doing something about them ever since. Many built their own equipment. Others bought commercial models. The source matters little—it's what they can do that counts most.

All-purpose elevators, either portable or stationary, are capable of elevating to desired heights baled, chopped or loose hay, ear corn, root crops, shelled corn, ground grain and forage. Chopped hay is being elevated in the accompanying illustration.

They do these "back-breaking" chores easily, and all day long without complaining. However, before you build or buy an elevator be sure you know for what it is to be used. That knowledge will determine the size and type best suited for your needs.

Costs of operation vary somewhat, but, in general, farmers can figure on it taking from 1/10 to five kilowatt hours of power to elevate 1,000 bushels of grain with an elevator, run by a five horsepower motor.

Small Farm Units Are Big Implement Buyers

Two-thirds of the one and one-half billion dollars being spent for agricultural implements this year is being expended for small one-family farms, according to a recent survey of the Anti-Friction Bearing Manufacturers association.

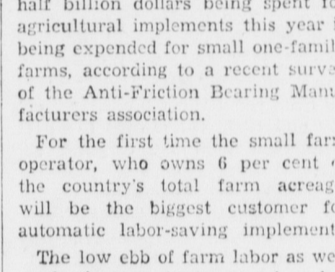

For the first time the small farm operator, who owns 6 per cent of the country's total farm acreage, will be the biggest customer for automatic labor-saving implements.

The low ebb of farm labor as well as the increase in farm savings has been responsible for the mechanization of the smaller farms.

One outstanding result is that by 1950, it is estimated that four million farms will produce 23 per cent more than the total production of six million farms before the war.

Plastic Lily Pond

Koroseal or plastic lily ponds make it possible for the farmer as well as the city dweller to have a lily pool without the expense of building a stone or concrete basin. The plastic pond may be emptied, folded up and brought indoors and stored during the winter months. The pond also may be used as a wading pool for children or as a duck pond.

Weevil Damage in Grain Traced to Unclean Bins

Prevention of weevil damage to the new crop is possible if the granary is cleaned and sprayed with DDT. Nearly all cases of "weevily" grain can be traced to unclean bins, according to Purdue university entomologists. Any infestation which occurs likely will come from insects which remain from year to year in the grain and can be prevented by proper cleaning.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK

CHOLERA SEASON ALL YEAR 'ROUND
Hog cholera knows no season. Precautions must be observed, all year 'round, if American farmers hope to check the ravages of this deadly virus disease of swine. Veterinary authorities report that complete losses of large droves of swine, due to hog cholera, have occurred in the middle of the winter as well as during the hottest summer months. Also, there seems to be no scientific evidence to support the old superstition that the feeding of new corn is somehow related to outbreaks of cholera. The only thing seasonal about hog cholera, according to these authorities, is the proper time for the first vaccination of young pigs. Vaccination at or around weaning time, for each new crop of pigs, is the surest and most effective precaution against devastating losses from this fast-killing virus. As an added safeguard against hog cholera, farmers are urged to guard against letting sick swine be brought onto the premises.

There are many ways that cholera can be transmitted from one herd to another. Flies, for instance, may carry the virus. But many outbreaks have been traced to infection carried from farm to farm on the cloth of freshing crews, in uncooled garbage, in contaminated feed bags, on wagon and truck wheels and other equipment. Still other dangers must be kept in mind. Hog cholera virus and hypodermic needles, carelessly handled by persons without the proper training, can spell disaster. Furthermore, pigs should be given a general physical check-up by a veterinarian to be sure they are in proper condition for vaccination, because if they are not in satisfactory condition, they may not develop immunity.

Dec. 31 Is Deadline For Grain Price Programs

Farmers in Pennsylvania who want Government price protection for their wheat crop were reminded today that they have only a few days left in which to take out loans or purchase agreements. December 31 is the closing date for the price support program for this crop, according to Clyde A. Zehner, Chairman of the Pa. Production and Marketing Committee.

Depending on the distance of the counties from the Philadelphia Port, loan rates for Wheat crop are from $2.14 to $2.29.

Up until yesterday, Pennsylvania farmers had, under the 1948 Price Support Program on wheat a total of 341 loans made on 108,845 bushels. The amount of money disbursed to Wheat growers under the program is $250,112.00.

Under the Purchase Agreement Program on Wheat, 2 Purchase Agreements have been approved covering 1,001 bushels.

Mr. Zehner emphasized that adequate storage is essential in order to obtain the benefits of the price-support program. Under loan crop must be sealed in approved storage facilities. Under purchase agreement, the farmer himself is responsible for storage of his crop, but any part later delivered to the Government must meet certain grade standards in order to receive the support price.

Corn loans and purchase agreements will be available until June 30, 1949.
