A COMING EVENT

About 15,000 young men were deferred during the war, to complete their training as doctors and dentists. Many of these were doing so, at government expense. Now we are faced with a shortage of about 3,500 doctors and dentists by the end of the year, the Armed Forces say and are considering a drive for volunteers. It is suggested by an advisory committee that these men previously deferred, owe a moral obligation to serve. They propose that doctors and also dentists who will volunteer for a minimum period of a year, be commissioned as officers and receive $103 a month in addition to the allotted pay and allowances for their rank. This item may be of interest to some young men who are either studying medicine or dentistry, or practicing their professions.

TIMES CHANGE

It has always been our opinion that playing checkers was the occupational disease pursued by firemen, from time immemorial. We were surprised to hear about the city firemen of Springfield, Mass., who have been hooking rugs. Their fire chief has issued a new order. The rug work, while on duty, cannot be done for profit. If they have time, during working hours, to hook the rugs, they must be for their own use and not for sale. A fireman does have much spare time from fire fighting to devote to a hobby and hooking rugs is fascinating many men. But, if the rugs must be for their own use and if Springfield does not have many fires, it looks as though the firemen's wives are going to have to rearrange the furniture to take care of hubby's surplus rug supply.

IT'S ABOUT TIME

The master of the National Grange, Albert Moss, gives a tip to President Truman that is a tip to the entire country. It has been repeatedly expressed by some men, and is not an original thought. Mr. Moss says the time has come for business, labor and agriculture to quit fighting each other in order to get through times of increasing debt and war threats. It is advisable, he continues, that labor, business and farm leaders have a conference, that the three start pulling together. It is something that should have been accomplished a long time ago, according to most of us. But how will they get together, since all sides usually must concede on some points in order to reach an amicable understanding? We have found that in these kind of conferences, folks do not want to do much conceding.

A TRUE CHARACTER

On the birthday of George Washington, we might refresh our minds on his Farewell Address, which gives his principles of government and his earnest hope for a new nation. Less familiar to Americans but of interest and importance, was a speech delivered by Daniel Webster on another Feb. 22, in 1832. It was The Character of Washington and includes the following:

"The domestic policy of Washington found its polestar in the avowed objects of the Constitution itself. He sought so to administer that Constitution as to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty. These were objects interesting, in the highest degree, to the whole country, and his policy embraced the whole country.

"Among his earliest and most important duties was the organization of the government itself, the choice of his confidential advisers, and the various appointments to office. This duty, so important and delicate, was yet not difficult to him, for he had no sinister ends to accomplish, no clamorous partisans to gratify, no pledges to redeem, no object to be regarded but simply the public good. It was a plain, straightforward matter, a mere honest choice of good men for the public service. His own singleness of purpose, his disinterested patriotism, were evinced by the manner in which he filled places of high trust."

This last paragraph seems to be an impossibility to follow in today's political picture. Promises, duties, obligations, pledges and of gifts are so tied in with political commitments to individuals that we wonder whether even George Washington could straighten us out.

THE WEATHER

By S. H. MILLER

Weather prediction for March and last day of April. Coming! Coming! The Herschel controls the shape of the ladies' hats. See photographs of 1864 for the shape, "a bread basket turned up side down" and take a napkin, and then drape it and you have it. First few days lamb like weather, then lion like weather starting on the 4th to the 15th when a few warm days can be expected. Then again around the 22 and 23, very disturbed weather with real Spring starting about the 28th. Remember the last eight days of April will be very chilly. 1 to 3 nice, warmer. 4 to 7 windy, snow. 8 to 11 windy, light snow, or rain, clearing, warmer. 12 to 15 cloudy, sleet or rain, colder, clearing. 16 to 19 fair, some colder, nice, cloudy. 20 to 23 windy, cloudy, snow, clearing, colder. 24 to 27 windy, nice, warmer, or rain. 28 to 31 cooler, clear, warmer.
