New Lanc. County Gas Co. Offers Extended

The Lancaster County Gas Company has been formed at an ideal time to serve the community, according to Joseph M. Colon, newly-appointed Sales Manager. The constant development of appliances for homes, industries and commercial establishments is resulting in an ever increasing demand for gas and Mr. Colon is looking forward to a continuing program of expansion which will extend the services and facilities of the Gas Company to all potential users.

"Our customers appreciate the ease, speed, and cleanliness which gas offers, and are using more and more of this low-cost fuel for cooking, refrigeration, home and water heating," Mr. Colon stated. "Our problem at the moment is to supply all the people who want gas, and we plan to increase our facilities just as rapidly as possible."

The new Sales Manager is well-known to Lancaster residents. Mr. Colon has been associated with the gas industry for twenty-four years. During that time, he has seen the number of gas customers in Lancaster County grow from about 12,000 to almost 25,000. He started his career in the production department of the Lancaster Gas, Light and Fuel Company, and later transferred to the Pennsylvania Bower and Light Company. As a member of the Company's Commercial Sales Department, he advanced to the position of Division Gas Representative, acting as consultant on all phases of gas utilization. His new capacity as Sales Manager of the Lancaster County Gas Company will enable him to extend the scope of his service in this field.

Mr. Colon was born in Oxydenburg, New York. He graduated from St. Lawrence University, Canton, New York, with a B.S. in Physics, and has taken courses in Manufacturing Gas from Columbia University, and in Public Relations from Penn State. He is a member of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, and captained the Utilities Group during the Community Chest drive. Mr. and Mrs. Colon, with their children, Thomas and Susan, reside at 537 North Mary Street in Lancaster.
