Wind Pressure
A 40-mile wind exerts a pressure of approximately seven pounds per square foot on the side of an automobile. An automobile might have an area on the side of about 30 square feet, so the total pressure of such a wind would be about 210 pounds.

Peanut Oil
Peanut oil can be heated to much higher temperatures than other animal and vegetable oils before it begins to smoke or scorch; thus it is preferred for deep-fat cooking of potato chips and similar food products.

Safety First
Never swim alone. Always have help at hand, preferably a life-guard with the knowledge and equipment for rescue. Don't swim after dark for the same reason. It is too hard for even an expert to assist you in the dark.

Care of Eyes
People in middle life and beyond should not add to their visual activities as they cut down on other activities. The eyes, like the heart and the rest of the body, require greater care with advancing years.

Immigration
Immigration to America reached its peak in 1900-1910 when nearly nine million aliens—more than twice the total United States population in 1790—entered the country.

Measuring Spoon
Grease your measuring spoon or cup with margarine before measuring molasses, honey, or syrup. You will find that the sticky liquids pour more easily.

Back Priming
When a coat of paint is applied to the back of woodwork and exterior siding to prevent moisture from getting into the wood and causing the grain to swell, it is said to be "back primed."

Equine Encephalomyelitis
Severe outbreaks of equine encephalomyelitis often occur during hot, rainy weather, probably because mosquitoes, which spread the disease, multiply rapidly during such weather.

Turkey Poults
Outbreaks of arsenic poisoning have occurred in turkey poults turned out on ranges unevenly spread with grasshopper bait.

Public Transit
The public transit industry employed regularly last year almost 300,000 workers who received $225,000,000 in wages.

A LEFTOVER CROP OF TOBACCO SOLD FOR 43 CENTS

The demand for old tobacco continues. W. M. Gemmill and Company representatives, Red Lion in York County, called at the farm of Elmer M. Sensenig, New Holland R1, on Thursday and hauled away 25 cases of his 1948 tobacco crop.

Sensenig was paid 43 cents a pound for his leaf marked weight of the crop at the time the tobacco went into cases. The best offer he had for his crop in the bales last winter and spring was 35 cents a pound.

Several other crops of 1948 packed tobacco were reported to be sold recently in Eastern Lancaster County at 42 cents a pound.

NEARBY FOLKS IN HOTEL FIRE AT BUFFALO, N. Y.
Four county persons were guests in a Buffalo, N. Y. hotel Sunday when fire broke out on the 14th floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Myers, Gene T. Myers, Salunga and Miss Dorothy Raver of Elizabethtown, who had rooms on the 11th floor, fled to the lobby of the hotel at 5:45 a. m. after the alarm was then sounded. None of the several hundred persons in the hotel was injured, but some spectators were cut by glass.

After the fire was extinguished the local group returned to their rooms and packed their belongings, starting for home a few hours earlier than they expected to.

Railroad Fair
A towering figure of Paul Bunyan, two stories in height and considered the largest animated figure ever constructed, is the central theme of the Chicago and Northwestern railway's exhibit at the Chicago Railroad Fair, Bunyan, built in the proportions of a man 35 feet tall, is able to move his hands, head, eyes, lips, and mouth and converses with visitors, telling tales of his accomplishments.

Woodchuck Nuisance
Woodchucks are nuisances on any farm or pasture. Many a head of livestock has broken its leg by stepping into one of these holes. The mounds of dirt around the holes interfere with farm machinery. These animals destroy a certain amount of grain but their main damage is done in their burrowing.

She also was given a hearing on Wednesday night at 7:00 p. m. at Justice of the Peace Lester Weidman's of Elizabethtown.

From there they came to the office of Squire James Heckenberry here, Mrs. Bleyer withdrew her charges and costs to the amount of $4.00 were paid.
This was the third time Mrs. Bleyer had her husband arrested, the two previous charges being for surety of the peace. Officer Elmer Zerphey served the one warrant and Officer Neiss the other two.

Tobacco Important In Marshall Plan

Is Present Prop Of Tobacco Farmer

Tobacco, from the time of the Virginia colony, has marched along as an intimate part of the American story to the present day. In the wake of World War II, as the United States emerged the strongest economic power, the American cigarette became temporarily a universal wapin—the chief currency in both Berlin and Burma.

"You have a cigarette economy from Paris to Peking," a member told the house of commons in 1946.

John Rolfe, husband of Pocahontas, would be astonished if he could see what he started when he brought in the seed of modern tobacco. In 1948, the United States made about 367 billion cigarettes, and the tobacco industry directly paid in excise and import taxes nearly two billion dollars.

From Virginia and Maryland the tobacco fields, growing over 25 types, have spread into North and South Carolina, south Georgia and

America and the world have smoked the tobacco in pipes, cigars and cigarettes, and snuffed it in powdered form and chewed it. The "chaw" is the most American of tobacco habits. European visitors have looked upon this habit with disgust. In 1947, addicts chewed 100 million pounds of tobacco.

The cigarette is the prime favorite. The modern cigarette, as we know it, was created almost on the eve of World War I. The formula for the popular brands sounds appetizing and nutritious. They mix with the bright leaf some Turkish tobaccos, much sweetened Virginia and some Maryland. A quantity of glycerine or its equivalent preserves moisture. The whole is made tasty with such flavors as sugar, rum, licorice, chocolate, and vanilla-like products or chemicals.

The cigarette has even wooed many of the ladies away from their pipes or snuff sticks.

Tobacco is of considerable importance in the Marshall plan—and the Marshall plan is the present prop of the tobacco farmer.

Chlordane Will Rout Mound-Building Ants
One hundred per cent kill of mound-building ants has been obtained with chlordane under controlled tests; conducted by entomologists working under the sponsorship of the Colorado agricultural research foundation.

Dr. George M. List, head of the department of entomology, reports three per cent chlordane applied as a spray in quantities of 250 to 300 cubic centimeters per nest produced the desired results.

Spraying the material into nests at the entrance and working the nozzle through the soil forming the nests proved to be the most effective method of application.

The problem of the mound-building ant is often overlooked or underestimated, List said. If there are 10 such nests on one acre, and each nest has made barren one square rod in addition to the seed robbed from adjoining plants, a goodly per cent of the acre produces little or no vegetation.

European Corn Borer Reduced Crop in 1948
The European corn borer reduced the 1948 crop of field corn by 85 million bushels, the U.S. department of agriculture announced in Washington, D.C. Surveys recently completed by the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, with cooperating agencies, indicate this loss in corn production is more than double that of 1947.

Mechanical Cleaner Suggested for Barns
If you're building a new barn, or remodeling an old one, it would be a good idea to include plans for installing a mechanical barn cleaner.

That's the advice of M. W. Forth, an engineer with the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

Forth says it would pay to make provisions for a barn cleaner ever. Though plans might not call for one right away.
