EDITORIAL

One can borrow trouble without having to put up any collateral. This may be the reason it is such a popular transaction.

The man who developed a chicken without wings should go a trifle farther. If he eliminated neck and feet he would win more appreciation.

SEPTEMBER

The changing days of September give you a bit of summer and a hint of fall. Frost has touched the earth in some places but flowers, fruit and vegetables still flourish. Gorgeous colors mark the landscape and promise further beauty in days to come. Remember those delicate apple blossoms of last spring? Their fruit is reddening on the boughs and the burden is heavy though the tree bears it most gracefully. Sumac has a touch of color, the scarlet leaves of the orange flame. Summer is hastening to its end with the ripening burs, the crisp fallen elm leaves, the scarlet showing on the maples. Evenings are cool, early morning sharp and damp with heavy dew. Mist and splashing sunshine do: September days. A time to revel in being alive.

It seems very strange to the public in general that prior to the opening of the new highway between here and Lancaster, Route 229 thru Seluzga and Landisville thru to five points at Lancaster, was handling all the traffic very successfully. Since the new road was opened a lot of the traffic was naturally re-routed which would greatly relieve conditions.

However, from the morning in the Lancaster dailies one would be led to believe that there was twice as much traffic now as heretofore. Then again it may be an opportune time to impress upon the authorities at Harrisburg that Lancaster needs a bypass. With that in view we heartily agree.

NOT SO BLOATED

It would seem a safe bet that the owners of a concern which took in better than $100,000,000 in a single year would be happy and wealthy people.

However things are not always what they appear to be on superficial examination. Here, for instance, is the operating experience of a nationally known corporation which manufactures automobile tires and other products and was grossed $114,673,739 in 1948.

First of all, more than half of the money 55.8 per cent went out for supplies, insurance, rents and other necessary expenditures.

Then the employees of the company received 28.8 per cent, in the form of salaries and wages and the social security costs and other kind of benefits.

Depreciation money set aside to take care of wear and tear on facilities came in for 1.6 per cent, and 2.7 per cent was reinvested in the company to pay for raw materials, research etc.

The tax collectors, Federal, state and local, were waiting for government's share and it was a big one, 9.6 percent of total revenues.

Finally, when all these unavoidable costs were met, the thousands of stockholders whose investments made the company and its employment possible, came in for a little slice of the financial pie. It amounted to just 1.5 per cent.

To sum up—for every $1.50 paid to those "battered plutocrats", the employees get $28.80 and government got $9.60.
