Quack Grass Control

TCA formulations are on the market commercially for the first time this season. They are being widely used for the control of quack, Bermuda, Johnson and other grasses.

Land of Opportunity

The freedom, opportunities and rewards for achievement in our country have directly enabled the whole American people to live on a scale undreamed of in any other country in the world.

Thank You, Sir!

Porters of northern India and Tibet, expressing thanks for payment for services, touch their heads to the ground, stick out their tongues, and hiss, says the National Geographic Society.

Experiments with Rats

Investigators have long been able to produce high blood pressure experimentally in rats but have been hampered because of the variable factors encountered in measuring the blood pressure of the rat.

He Never Drinks

The koala of Australia, which resembles a teddy bear, never drinks, obtaining enough moisture from the young eucalyptus leaves on which he lives.

Weapon of Toads

About the only protective weapon the toad has is a milky fluid which they can give off and which is obnoxious to dogs.

Insect Infestation

The spread of insect infestation and tree disease is more serious and more difficult to control than forest fires.

Salt for Cows

Leaving salt out of his dairy cows' feed cost an Illinois dairyman 100 dollars a month in reduced milk flow.

Marine Landings

Since 1775, United States marines have made more than 200 landings on foreign shores.

Speaking of Honey

Solomon said—"My son eat thou honey for it is good." Proverbs 24:13.

Milk House Heaters

Easily Attached to Walls in Winter Time

Nobody enjoys working in a cold milk house. But until very recently, farmers could do little about it—except, perhaps, add another layer to their already uncomfortably bulky clothing.

Experiments conducted in the last two or three years, however, have helped solve the milk house heating problem. One type of equipment, developed as a direct result of such agricultural engineering experiments, is shown in the accompanying illustration. It is a 3000 watt, 240 volt, thermostatically controlled electric space heater. Easily attached to the milk house wall, it is five feet high and produces a temperature range of between 40 and 80 degrees.

Other new developments along this line include the use of small hot water radiators which are connected to standard dairy water heaters, and

Arthur Miller of Union, Ill., admires the new heater recently installed in his milk house.

Most farmers, however, are interested primarily in "spot heating"—that is warming only the specific places in which they happen to be working at the moment. This is a relatively simple job and can be done by placing heat lamps directly above or adjacent to the space to be warmed.

Our Presidents

Tallest president of the United States was Abraham Lincoln—6 feet 4 inches. Largest president was Taft, who weighed 280 pounds. The shortest was President Madison, who was less than 5 feet 4 inches.

Change Tractor Oil

Failure to observe the recommended oil drain practice and oil filter service will result in a clogged oil filter and lead to coated oil screens, plugged oil lines, scorched pistons, and burned bearings on your tractor.

Planting Sweet Potatoes

The fungi which cause "black rot" and "soil rot" in sweet potatoes live in the soil from one season to another, so it is not advisable to plant successive crops of potatoes on the same soil.

Rainwater on Farm

Terracing, contour farming, and close growing vegetation such as small grain, legumes, and grass soil will help slow up the runoff water so that it can soak into the soil.

To Prevent Rot

Foundation timbers, posts, steps, porches or other wood parts of a building should not be placed in contact with the soil unless of treated wood or the heartwood of a naturally durable species.

Salt for Swine

In hot weather, pigs need salt. When they are fed enough ordinary salt, records show they gain up to two and one-half times faster than pigs that get no salt.

Galvanized Ware

Galvanized ware is the name applied to steel containers which have been made rust-resistant during the manufacturing process by application of a zinc coating.

Enriched Corn Meal

Important health-protecting vitamins and minerals added to enriched corn meal are calcium, iron, thiamin, known as vitamin B1, riboflavin, and niacin.

Centipede Grass

Centipede grass on the banks of a farm pond acts as a buffer for waves. In turn, the grass roots hold the soil so that it does not wash.

Graded Eggs

Eggs which are not graded officially, under either federal or federal-state programs, cannot carry the letters "U. S." before the grade designation on the label.

Before Freezing Vegetables

About a gallon of water is needed per pound of vegetables to scald them for freezing. Two gallons are needed per pound of leafy vegetables.

Why of Sponge Shortage

For several years now, people have been wondering why there are so few natural sponges on the market, offered at prices almost beyond reach. The shortage is usually blamed upon the war. This, however, is not the reason. Department of commerce explains that the big western Atlantic sponge beds were blighted by fungus in 1939, and that recovery of the western Atlantic's shallow water sponge beds may require at least five years more, and the deep water beds from 10 to 20 years more.

James River Company

George Washington foresaw the necessity of binding the isolated outposts to the original 13 states by means of transportation and communication and urged that such plans be put into effect. In 1765 the James River company was organized to build a transportation route to the west. Washington was elected president of this company and construction began on the James River canal.

Waterproofing Outside Walls

For waterproofing outside walls made of concrete blocks, use cement paint. Block walls should age at least 24 days before the first coat is applied and at least 48 hours more before the finish coat is applied. The cement paint should be thoroughly scrubbed into the surface.

Weed Killer

If a weedkiller works by penetrating the leaves, oil-soluble compounds should be used; if it is absorbed by the roots, water soluble compounds are preferable, according to scientists at the University of California college of agriculture.

Our Presidents

Tallest president of the United States was Abraham Lincoln—6 feet 4 inches. Largest president was Taft, who weighed 280 pounds. The shortest was President Madison, who was less than 5 feet 4 inches.
