EDITORIAL

England may be improving its people's health but its treasury is certainly mighty sick looking.

A man feels sort of ashamed to say he is next when there are women standing around waiting to be served.

Have you ever noticed that occasionally Washington, D. C. puts on funnier shows than many of our broadcasting stations on the radio.

It takes a rugged individual to sit thru rain and snow to see the outcome of a football game. How many of these same fellows would work under those conditions.

CANT KID THESE BIRDS
Turkey & chicken growers, thru-out several of the western states in some manner got a tip from European raisers that poultry would thrive on potatoes. That was really good news, not only to growers but to the U. S. Agriculture Department as well. It would be an outlet for the many millions of pounds of tubers in the hands of the Government.

But the whole plan went floozy when poultry refused to eat potatoes in any form and those that did showed no signs of responding.

COFFEE CLUTCHING
The coffee drinker won't be caught napping when he hears of the scarcity of coffee bean in the world markets. With folks drinking more and more coffee, with droughts and floods and increased wages to affect the coffee producing countries, the proposition isn't good. 'Tis hinted that by next year we will be paying $1 a pound for the brew. We'll start now to conserve, not make more coffee than we drink. Perhaps if we did this, also cut consumption, it might help to keep coffee costs down. Sounds like war-time measures, but when a coffee drinker is reduced from his normal supply, he feels warlike. Some early morning dispositions depend upon coffee. Before the coffee, beware of storms and the temper, afterwards the being becomes expensive, jovial and hearty. Coffee assumes an important place in our life, when you think you might not have it.

AN ARMISTICE
An Armistice is commemorated by a nation. An Armistice is a pause in hostilities and in the interval of an armistice, peace reigns. The fact that an armistice is a pause, not permanence, is fearsome and threatening. It is an uneasy peace, a strain and a compromise. We would have our nation strong as a bulwark of peace. But however much we desire such, the recent battle at home between our armed forces, words that strike blows at unification of these armed services, leaves us wondering how we can pursue peace when inside the bulwarks there is disunity, and unwillingness to compromise to give an inch. We are having an armistice, after the recent hearings of Army and Navy officers before a Congressional committee. The gravity of the situation is such that it menaces our defense. What is more important, a branch of the service or the safeguarding of a nation?

THINK THIS OVER
The Department of Commerce offers the facts. In 1929, twenty-five cents of every dollar of national income, went for shelter. Last year it was eighteen cents. In 1929, clothing took 13 cents of every dollar, last year it was 11 cents. In 1929, food swallowed 23 cents of each dollar and remained the same last year. In 1929, local, state and federal government took but 12 cents of the dollar. Last year the cost of government was 23 cents. This means we pay as much out of every dollar for government as we do for food. With a rising cost of government, the load of taxation on the people is staggering. Economy in government is our own justifiable plea. As a taxpayer was overheard to remark, there isn't much that's free anymore about a free government.

Last Tuesday John L. Lewis, and his United Mine Workers' lawyers handed over to the United States Treasury $1,420,000.00. This represents a fine (the largest in history) for Lewis' refusal to obey a court order and stop a strike.

There goes nearly a million and a half of the wages earned by coal miners, that they could have used for many, many better purposes had it not been for their leader.

Of course Lewis needs' care, it wasn't his money. The only thing left undone was that a jail sentence should have been added.

THIS PARTY
Party is a price prop, used to balance economy by a plan to manage economy. Industry, and the farmer are the three vital points in our national economy. Industry has tariffs and many agencies to maintain prices. The government protected industry against price declines. Labor is so well organized that it fights loss of pay, seeks higher wages, less working hours, even when supply and demand suggest a wiser course. Farmers without help, can't halt a flooded farm market. When farm prices fall, as they have to a disastrous level, our entire economy gives way. So there is "parity" to protect the farmer, in the company of protection of industry and labor. The need of parity may be questioned, how to handle it is widely argued. Farm surpluses have put us on the spot. To get rid of surplus we need to consume. At home and abroad certain areas are in need of these surplus crops. They can increase consumption. This would increase crop price, but you increase price and you reduce consumption. He who consumes, pays in taxes for parity, and when parity keeps prices higher, he pays the higher price that parity brings. It sounds like a circle and a problem for economists. Well, it is both, and also a headache for every taxpayer.

Customers' Corner
Why will food prices go up if the anti-trust lawyers win their suit to put A & P out of business?
Here is just one of a number of reasons:
We manufacture many of the quality foods we sell in our stores, such as Bokar, Red Circle and Eight O'Clock coffees, Ann Page foods, White House milk, and many others.
Because this saves us money we are able to pass along these savings to our customers in the form of lower prices.
The anti-trust lawyers have asked the court to order us to get rid of our manufacturing facilities, which would put an end to all these savings.
Make no mistake about it. If the anti-trust lawyers succeed in putting A & P out of business you will find your food bill is higher.
