

OWL LAFFS

A WISE OWL

We sure are having a time at our house. My wife has suddenly realized she's getting hippy. So she consulted a specialist who told her she has to pitch her hay different because her appetite has thrown her a lot of curves.

So he put her on a de-hippering diet, and now at the end of two weeks she's fourteen days older and not a minute lighter.

They're serving milkless milk shakes down at Bennetts they tell me. But the customer gets the break. They're made entirely of ice cream. — Tisn't so, they say. Well, here's where I got my information.

A patron ordered a milkshake. Myrtle puts ice cream in the container and puts it on the shaker. When she takes it off and attempts to pour it in a glass, it doesn't run out. There's no liquid. She had added neither milk nor flavoring. Just icecream.

It's really amazing how much good you can do if you don't care who gets the credit.

We have a rural lady (Mount Joy RD2) who does not believe in the old messy way of chopping heads off to kill chickens. Whenever she contemplates having chickens, she takes her trusty little 410 gun and shoots the varmint. But the other day she had a little more chicken than she calculated. She had chosen the one she wanted to shoot and pulled the trigger.—Result: 2 dead chickens and one crippled fowl. --- Wot happened?

I promised I wouldn't mention those two Moose and Elk hunters who went to the mountains on Sunday, so I'm keeping my word. Nor will I mention that the only firearm the one took along was a slingshot.

One of our local grade school teachers was trying to impress on her class the fact that you cannot subtract one thing from another unless they are of the same denomination. For instance, she said, "we cannot take two apples from three oranges." And then the bright boy of the class ruined all her efforts by asking: "But, teacher, can't we take four apples from two trees?" --- No answer.

Bob Kaufman had some very anxious moments the other day. He was smoking a cigar and baking an oyster pie at the same time. When the pie was completed and in the oven he couldn't locate his cigar butt. No amount of searching could locate the elusive bit of tobacco and Bob hoped against hope he hadn't accidentally dropped it in the pie. When it was baked and ready to eat, they searched each portion carefully, but no butt.

Hillbilly Zeke had never seen a motorcycle so when a man came roaring up the road on one, Zeke took a shot at it. "Did you kill the varmint?" asked his wife. "Nope," said Zeke, "but I sure made it let go of that man."

Everybody and his brother is investing public opinion these days with some sort of survey, so I thought I might as well add to the general confusion by submitting my own data compiled from questioning 100 males. This is the breakdown of answers to my question. Kissing my neighbor's wife 47 percent; Kissing anybody else's wife 53 percent.

A young blood had a terrific crush on an E'town blonde and he invited her to go horseback riding. He tells it like this: "She was beautiful and one moonlight I invited her to go horseback riding. There we were, riding side by side...her horse smuggling up to my horse...my horse smuggling

Donegal Airport

The Thanksgiving Day Holiday found many local pilots taking advantage of the good smooth flying weather by taking friends and relatives for sightseeing flights. Clarence Nissley, Charlie Bailey and Norman Heisey flew to the Lancaster Airport. Ben Zettlemyer, Elmer Rice, Robert Shank, LeLand Bailey, Stehman Landis and Herb Shelly flew friends for short flights. Elmer Groff, Alvin Reist, Frank Hassinger, Harold Baer, John Bender and Paul McMillan took short pleasure hops. Gerald Hessler, Alfred Gusler, Marlin Young and Bruce Robinson continued their Commercial Training on the holiday.

Adam Greer flew to the Harrisburg Airport on business. Alfred Gusler made a solo cross country trip to Kutztown on Saturday morning.

Bruce Robinson made his first solo flight during the week.

George Minick and John Hawthorne flew a dual cross country to Durham and Raleigh, North Carolina.

George Fisher flew several friends to Hershey.

Deer Hunters

on the first day Charles Garlin, West Main St., shot a six point buck.

Roy Shot 7-Pointer
Roy Spahr, Landisville succeeded in shooting a seven point deer near Pine Grove Furnace Monday.

Four young men in the lower end of the County just couldn't be lured to the mountains Monday and here's what happened: Earl Wood, 15, shot an 8-point buck on his father's farm at Peach Bottom. Leroy and Herbert Buzzard, brothers, New Holland, got a buck near Elverson. Lewis Groff, Lancaster and his brother, Haines Groff of Quarryville RI, each shot a buck in Fulton township.

Shot Buck 1st Half Hour
Clayton Earl Heisey, of town, bagged the first buck he ever saw in season, with the first shot at 7:30 Monday morning. It weighed 125 lb., and had one antler with two points. Benj. Horst, Jr. of Columbia and Wallace Zerpey, of town, accompanied him on the trip to Schuylkill County.

Zerpey reported he saw an albino doe grazing with several other doe. A white deer is quite an oddity.

Got a Bear & Deer
Last week Ezra L. Hoover of Pheerms, shot a 183 lb. bear in Cameron County.

This week he returned there and bagged a deer.

A 5-Pointer
Harvey Newcomer shot a 5-point buck at Perry County.

His Was An 8-Point
Charles Hendrix, East Donegal St., bagged an eight point buck the first day of the season while hunting at Austin, Potter County with Clayton Hickernell, also of town.
