EDITORIAL

Remember folks. No tax collector can take away any of that money you gave to charity.

The Boro of Litzitz has practically decided to install a sewage system at a cost of $1,388,000. This would meet that boro's demands until 1975. It is based on its present population of 5,500 persons and 7,600 in 26 years.

The cost, which will interest folks most, is $7.00 per foot front. Local property owners could get a good idea from the above, approximately what sewage would cost here.

CARRYING A THING TOO FAR

Many take apples to teacher because they have no ulterior motive, others because they are "apple polishers", and numerous children know what we mean. In a certain school board members had to stop gift-giving to teachers because competition became so great and expensive and unfair. No teacher should be placed in such an embarrassing position, no worthy teacher would be influenced by such gifts when it was time to mark grade cards. The innocent, simple, sweet thoughtfulness of youngsters, can become an abused and unpleasant incident. Such a business of apple polishing isn't confined to the school room, however. The practice extends into industry with adults, into the public office, into society. It is at its worst when it is called "pull" by man.

BOBBIN' AND JOGGIN' ALONG

Let's start off the New Year by delivering ourselves a sermon upon careful driving, make resolutions to help reduce automobile accidents. Adhering to all the rules of the highway is not enough. There is the matter of fancies and doodads to consider. For instance, impaired vision causes accidents. Clear vision is as essential as a brake. When you adorn the windshield with birds that bob up and down on a stick, suspend cupie dolls from a visor, dangle ball fringe, joggle plastic figures on curtain blinds, cover windows with Venetian blinds and cretonne curtains, you have obscure vision. Don't distract with faddlers. Such trappings don't improve the appearance of any car, whatever its model and MAY not improve the appearance of the driver, whatever the chassis looked like, BEFORE the accident.

THE OLD RED SCHOOLHOUSE

Sentimentally you read or recall things about the little old red schoolhouse. It is lauded in song and verse and is an American institution. Fame and fortune has come to many who once learned readin', ritin and 'rithmetic there. Most of these little buildings have passed to give way to modern structures, but there are still 75,000 one room schoolhouses being used. There is nothing endearing about poor ventilation and poor lighting and often poor instruction. Naturally there are some rural communities isolated and need the one-room school. There are a far greater number of these existing than are needed, however. Children, placed at an educational disadvantage, won't look back sentimentally to the little old red schoolhouse when they realize what they have missed in adequate teachers, modern buildings, well rounded programs of education, extra-curricular activities.

We wish the best education for our young, that they have all the advantages that we didn't have. We love the simplicity of the life of the little old red school.

THE NOSE KNOWS

The aroma of a pine forest used in the ink of the December issue of the Natural History magazine, was refreshing to its readers, no doubt. It reminded us of the time newspapers had a floral scented ink to print a perfume's ad. All of this may lead to many scents on the magazine rack. Your nose would direct you to the manual on growing roses, the chemists guide, the bloody scent of a detective magazine, the odor of salt and sea in the marine publications. What a confusion of fusions. Well, they won't be able to imitate the odor of sheets freshly dried in crisp air, of freshly turned earth, of spring showers, of old leather. A man says this scented ink stunt might upset the publishers of dog and horse fanciers guides, of farm magazines but would be easy for automotive manuals with gasoline in the ink, essence of onions in the homemaker monthly and of fish in the sportsman's.

LET'S DO SOMETHING!

The great American public feels it can't stand higher taxes. Economists warn of the danger of over spending and endangering a nation's security. We know higher taxes will mean inflation, create higher costs and result in less buying, leading to further unemployment. We also know federal spending could be reduced without hardship to our national security. The report of the Hoover Commission, convinced us of that. If millions of dollars could be saved the tax payer through more efficiency in federal management, why isn't this done before further burdens of taxes? The Hoover report clearly stated that waste and red tape cost us $2 billion a year, due to poor management by the government. Asking for $4 billion more in taxes when half of this amount could be saved by reorganizing the executive branch in government.

If you want to know more about what is suggested for righting the wrongs in the Executive branch, write to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Washington 6, D. C. for a booklet called "A Multi-Billion Opportunity", on the report of the Hoover Commission. If you want to express yourself concerning the report, firmly and forcefully put your wishes before your representatives and senators, that you want action at this next session of Congress.

Week's Best Recipe

Lemon Icebox Cookies: 1 c fat, 2 c sugar, 1 T grated lemon rind, 2 T lemon juice 2 eggs, 4 c sifted flour, 2 t baking powder, 1-8 t salt, 1-8 t nutmeg. Cream fat, sugar, lemon rind, juice in mixing bowl. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each. Place flour, baking powder, salt, nutmeg in sifter. Sift into mixing bowl and blend well. Shape dough into 3 rolls about 2 inches round. Wrap in waxed paper, chill thoroughly. Cut in thin slices and bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven until lightly brown. Cool before storing in tightly covered container. Makes about 8 dozen cookies.

Wave Or Wear

Take big squares in chiffon or sheer cotton, plain colors or bold patterns and decorate your costumes. Trail them from pockets in dresses or coats or suit. Pull the hankies through the belt and hang like a sash. Knot around the wrist just to look fluffy and pretty. Perhaps you would rather carry one and wave as you talk.

Home Sewing

Home sewing has its greatest boom in history. The result is, in many cases, professional looking suits, coats and dresses at far lower cost than buying ready-made apparel. There are many classes sponsored by department stores, sewing centers, to instruct in cutting, adjusting patterns and how to operate and use sewing machine gadgets for shortcuts. Schools and clubs are having home sewing demonstrations. There is great satisfaction in achieving a well-fitted garment that didn't make a dent in the family budget.

GEN. HOSPITAL COMPLETED MOST ACTIVE YEAR

The Lancaster General Hospital has just completed the most active year in its history in serving the community. This statement was made by Dr. Roger W. DeBusk, Executive Director of the hospital, when he presented the census report for the year 1949 to the Board of Directors at their monthly meeting. A comparison of the records shows that in seven different categories new records for hospital service were established last year. The most significant record is the 12,222 patients who had made use of the hospital service last year. This is 962 more than were admitted to the hospital in 1948. This number of patients is, of course, reflected in the other census statistics. It was also stated that 1,511 of the total number of patients received free hospital service.

MORE CUSTOMERS

LESS INCOME

It seems strange to many of you that we should need financial relief at a time when we are serving more people than ever before in telephone history.

Don't new subscribers mean more income? Yes, they do, but they also mean more expense. Our total expenses are increasing at a much faster rate than our total income, so you can see that adding new customers isn't going to solve our problem.

Only an increase in payment for services will keep your telephone company in a sound position to continue providing good telephone service.
