Lubricating Oil

Many of the best lubricating oils are now made by a solvent extraction process, in which the crude lubricating oil stock is washed by another liquid to take out impurities. To design plants for this process, engineers have to know how much of each liquid they can put through the equipment without overloading

Maternal Mortality Rate

In 1947 the United States had a maternal mortality rate of 1.3 per 1000 live births, the lowest on the rate of 1.5 in 1943; France had a rate of 1.6 in 1942; England and Evergreens need plenty of water. Whenever rains are missing, the evergreen owner should be alert to remedy the deficiency no matter at what time of the year it comes. City evergreens need water forcibly sprayed over the top as well as on the roots, in order to wash off the layer of greasy soot which collects on the needles.
