ville, a highway worker, was crushed between a truck and a tree in front of the East Hempfield Twp. road supervisors equipment shed at Rohrerstown

He was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital, where attendants reported his condition as serious.

A son, Clair R. Holbeing, of the County Prothonotary's office, was summoned and was ready to donate blood should his father need a transfusion.

According to another township road worker, G. Wilson Mohler. the man was seated on a stone spreader attached to the rear of the truck which backed into the tree. The truck, rented by the supervisors from Binkley and Ober, stone guarry operators, East Petersburg, was operated by Merle Lefever, of Penryn.
