NOTED SINGING GROUP AT CALVARY CHURCH THIS WEEK
 The Spiritual Jubilee Singers from Chicago, Ill., will return by popular request for four services over the weekend at the Calvary Bible Church. Several weeks ago they stopped over for one night. The demand for their return was spontaneous and insistent, so by dispensation and a change in their itinerary they consented to be with us again.

The group is under the able leadership of Mr. Eddie Lango a graduate of Fisk University in Tennessee, who has studied under some of the ablest instructors in music.

He has taken groups of singers all across this nation, having sung before some of the largest audiences in this country. The group also traveled and sang in most of the foreign capitals of the world.

Saturday night they will present a program of spiritual songs in which they will trace the history and development of the Negro spiritual. Sunday afternoon will feature a sacred concert and Sunday night will be an all request program. Requests will be honored as they are presented at Saturday nights service.

The services are scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Saturday and 10:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

WERE AT QUINCY ORPHANAGE AND HOME ANNIVERSARY DAY

The forty-seventh annual anniversary day celebration of the Quincy United Brethren Orphanage and Home at Quincy, Pa., was held Thursday, June 8th, and was attended by several local people who had a most enjoyable trip and visit.
 Twenty busses and 1200 cars carried six thousand people to the home and orphanage for the day's festivities.
 A band, composed of boys from the home, played during the program at which Dr. Enck spoke. The children participated in the program and the older folks sang. Refreshments were served and visitors were taken on a tour of the buildings that house seventy-five adults and one hundred thirty-two children, plus the help, comprise fifteen acres. Two hundred acres are farmed and sixty-five are in timber.
 A new building now under construction for adults will cost $65,000 and house thirty-two more people plus the working staff.
 These people from this locality attended: Mrs. Ralph Berrier, Mrs. Robert Brubaker, Salunga; Mrs. Harold Kulp, West Main St.; Mrs. Alvin Yings, Mrs. Marlin Ney, Mrs. Paul Stauffer, Mrs. Clarence Gruber, Mrs. Charles Derr, Miss Ethel Feiker, Joyce and Janice Berrier, Dona Ney, Judy and Tommie Stauffer and Darla Kulp.

ornia, also two grandchildren.
 The remains were brought here for burial Saturday afternoon and interred in the Mt. Joy cemetery. Brief services were held in charge of Rev. Edmund L. Manges, of St. James Lutheran church at Huntingdon, Pa.

SHORT STORY
Sane And Sensible
 By Richard Hill Wilkinson

GAIL WATCHED TOMMY Berkeley and Rita Young disappear down the moon-flooded path toward the beach. His arm was about her waist and Rita's red head, was very close to Tommy's blond locks. "Tears blinded Gail's vision. 'That's what you get,' she thought bitterly. 'For being sane and sensible all your life. For being virtuous and loyal.' Loyall! The word provoked a laugh. Loyal to what? To Tommy Berkeley? That was ridiculous. You couldn't be loyal to a man who didn't know what you were up to. Or at least it lost its effect."
 Gail turned and started back toward the lodge. Two months ago she had come up here, with her folks for the summer. The day after their arrival she had met Tommy Berkeley. They had danced and Tommy had looked down at her and said: "You're not pretty or beautiful, you're glorious, which is really a weak word to express what I mean."
 Gail had known then why all her life she had been sane and sensible. It had been for Tommy.

At the point where the path skirted the tennis courts before coming to the lodge steps, Gail saw a figure and stopped, catching her breath.

"Hi there, Gail, I saw you walking down this way and followed." Even without the help of moonlight to etch out the features of the man Gail recognized the voice. It was Clark Davis. Davis was tall and good looking and dark. He was considered wild. He had a reputation. Mothers warned their daughters not to go out with him, though they didn't say why. "Clark!" she forced a laugh. "You frightened me at first."
 "Sorry." He came close. "I guess I've been frightening you ever since you came up here. I wish I didn't."

A path of molten gold streamed across the lake. Tentatively, Clark Davis slipped an arm around her waist. And when she offered no objection he stopped and swung her to face him. "Gail!" he cried hoarsely. "Gail!" And he took her into his arms. She yielded, gave him her lips in a long kiss. When it was over she broke away, suddenly, unaccountably, regretful, guilty, ashamed.
 "Don't! Please! I—I think we'd better go back."

But Clark Davis didn't understand. He couldn't understand. He seized her wrist and jerked her up close to him. "Listen," he said tensely. "I love you! Do you hear? I want you—have wanted you since the first day you arrived here. And you want me!"
 "No. No, Clark! I was a fool to come here with you. Please let me go."

QUICK FOOTSTEPS

sounded along the pebbles. A figure loomed out of the gloom. Davis

Clark's feet went out from under him. He fell groaning.

felt a heavy hand on his shoulder. He swung around, saw Tommy Berkeley. Angriily he swore and struck out. But Tommy sidestepped the blow and drove home a hard fist, catching Davis behind the ear, following it with a second blow to the jaw.
 Clark's feet went out from under him. He fell groaning. "You dirty dog!" Tommy said, coldly brutal. "You ought to be hung!" Then he turned to Gail, where she had sunk to her knees. He helped her up.

They walked along the beach. Tommy's arm supported her. They stopped at the foot of the path. "The dirty dog," Tommy said. "Why can't a man like Davis accept the fact that there are some good girls left? Why does he have to think they're all alike?"
 "Oh, Tommy!" She smiled, dabbing at her eyes. "It—it's all right now. I—I was foolish to have come here with him. If you hadn't come along—"
 He grinned. "Lucky thing for both of us. Rita and I were sitting on the big rock beyond the point. When we heard you cry out we thought there was trouble and she went back to the lodge by the road. I came over to investigate. I'm glad I found you, because now you'll be the first to know of Rita's and my engagement."
