

OWL LAFFS

A WISE OWL

Now fellows here's really one for the books. You fishermen and hunters...

I know you never saw one but did you ever hear of rabbits that actually have five speeds—forward, reverse, right or left and up. Well, we've got 'em.

The other day I saw one run, stop suddenly and zig to the right, then leap in the air. Another zigged to the left stopped and went into reverse for a few leaps, turned a back somersault and went the other way to beat blazes.

A few days later an auto hit and killed one of them and believe you me I performed a very close post mortem, and sure as my name is Wisheimer I discovered the very unusual cause for those queer antics.

Two years ago an active member of our Sportsmen's Association, Paul Diefenderfer, one of the Bulletin's Quiz Kids, cause he knows all the answers, gave the editor a cactus plant. We nursed it like a child and like Mr. Finney's turnip, it grew and grew and grew.

One month ago it had attained real size—with a dozen leaves about as big as a man's hand with about one million and eleven thorns on each leaf. In addition it had three large buds about ready to burst open in yellow profusion. Now comes the funny part. With some of the choicest clover growing all around, the rabbits got courage enough to bite of the ends of several of those thick juicy cactus leaves and after they got that taste they really devoured the leaves, thorns and all, about like Paul, Toots, and several other guys at John Eshelman's chicken creole after a day's deer hunt at Buck Ridge Lodge in Perry County several years ago.

Well, with a belly full of cactus thorns, can you imagine what you could do if, every move of your body those thorns would prick you here, there and everywhere. That's what was wrong with those darn rabbits that acted so funny.

But the fun hasn't really started yet since Diefenderfer is indirectly the cause of the whole shebang. I am gonna invite him down to shoot those critters. You can all imagine what that will be like.

When I told him about it he said he'll shoot at em, but he will either get a riot gun from the State Police or have A. D. Garber weld a funnel in the end of his gun barrel. But then even that has a drawback. He's afraid the ring-necked will fly into the funnel.

Anyway we're looking forward to some tall doings this Fall unless those darn thorns tickle the rabbits to death.

Always forgive a woman who swears she has never been kissed—she has good reason for swearing.

Uptown Hubby: "You never tell me what you're going to buy. Don't I get any voice in the buying?" Wife: "Yes, my love, you get the invoice."

A young lady, telephoning a music store, was connected by mistake with a garage. "Do you have Two Red Lips and Seven Kisses?" "No," answered the garage man, "but we have two cats and seven kittens."

"Is that a record?" "Well," answered the garage man "we think it is."

Downtowner: "Hey, have you forgotten that five dollars you owe me?" "Certainly not; didn't you see me try to duck into that doorway?"

THE LOW DOWN

HICKORY GROVE I am, of all things, a do-gooder. I admit it. But I am sailing under no false banner, where I claim all my do-gooding is just for the other guy, exclusive. There is no substitute for the truth.

Here's how. When you here some political get 'nangue about cutting all big or man's size business down to boy's size, pick up a posting of Landisville's Larry Heistand.

LANCASTER RED ROSES CONDUCTED SCHOOL HERE

Approximately 100 boys, ranging in age from six to seventeen, were on hand at the Mount Joy playground Monday afternoon for a baseball school conducted by the Lancaster Red Roses, of the Interstate League.

Roses' Manager Ed Head and three of his players, Jack Elkins, Bob Louis and Gail Wade, and General Manager Bill Cowdrick conducted the school.

The boys were divided into four groups covering pitching, infield, outfield and catching. Manager Head instructed the pitchers, Louis, the infielders, Wade the outfielders and Elkins the catchers.

Head, a former Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, gave the boys a thrill during the baseball game by playing as a pitcher and throwing left-handed and right-handed.

At the close of the school it was announced by the Roses that they would hold a similar program at the Marietta playground.

Monday's program was arranged by John Zink, chairman of the Mt. Joy playground committee.
