

OWL LAFFS

A WISE OWL

Last week at the regular meeting of the "Absent Minded Professors" Club, Earl Miller, local slater, was elected President. He earned this distinction by driving his car over to Newcomer's Gas Station, and after loafing around a while walked home by way of the alley. When he passed his garage and saw the doors open, he went to close them—then, he remembered, he had left his car over at the gas station and proceeded to walk back and get it.

When I asked Sam Dock where he got all the cigars he had in his pocket, he quickly replied, "I read all the Birth Columns, and when I see someone I know, who had a baby, I pay them a visit to congratulate them, thereby adding a couple more cigars to my collection."—that's the hard way.

Stan Shank had himself quite a time on his vacation at Wildwood, he seemed to be always getting in places he didn't belong—you better let him tell you about it.

Jake Zieger, local ground hog hunter, had a funny experience the other day. He started out to get himself a little meat for the table, after walking several miles, and only seeing two, which he had time only to aim at and no shot, found when he arrived home that he had just "taken his gun for a nice long walk"—for when he put his gun away he discovered there were no shells in it. — Jake says he does not care that much for whistle pigs anyway.

You all remember "Murphy", Strasburg's ex-tobacco man? He's turned out to be quite a fisherman. The other day when he was fishing, he had a strike which took the hook, line and sinker, plus the rod, from his grasp and disappeared in the stream. Murphy, not being discouraged, started to grapple for his outfit, and after a while found it ---only to find a fish 4 or 5 inches long on it---Clay Newcomer told him those little fish are awfully strong.

A child training expert suggests that if your child becomes unmanageable, quickly switch his intention --- Times certainly have changed, that wasn't what they switched in my days.

After a day at Gretna Lake, (her first this year), a local brunette brought us this ---
Spring has sprung
Summer has fell
I took a sunbath
And am as burnt as can be.

No, no, grandma, you should listen to the radio more carefully--- you don't hang iron curtains to the windows.

When that certain dope went into a store and asked: "Have you any blue neckties to match my eyes?" The clerk matched his question with: "No, but we have some soft hats to match your head." --- I'd like to shake the clerk's hand.

I think I made a mistake. I started out on the theory that the world had an opening for me. Well, it did, I'm in the hole now.

You can't blame kids if they get misled. When Jimmy asked his grandpa Carl: "If we breathe oxygen all day what do we breathe at night?" Grandpa answered: "Nitrogen."

Game Commission Sets Game, Fur Seasons & Limits

At its July 6th meeting the Pennsylvania Game Commission decided the game and fur dates for the coming season of September 1st, 1950 to August 31st, 1951, and the daily and seasonal limits for the taking of game birds and animals and furbearers.

The season for hunting bobwhite quail, Hungarian partridges and ruffed grouse is the same --- November 1st to 15th, inclusive. Limits on them are: bobwhites, 4 a day and 12 the season; Huns, 2 and 8; grouse, 2 and 6. Ringneck pheasants, cottontail rabbits and gray, black and fox squirrels may be hunted the full season --- November 1st through the 25th. The take on them will be: ringnecks, 2 a day and 8 the season; rabbits, 4 and 20; squirrels (combined kinds), 4 and 20.

Only one wild turkey may be taken by a hunter, November 1st to 25th, inclusive. Nine counties and parts of 3 counties will be closed to turkey hunting. In twenty-four bear counties the turkey season will be closed during the one week bear season, but open before and after it.

Hares (snowshoe rabbits) may be taken December 25th to January 1st, 1951, inclusive. The bag allowed is 2 a day, and 6 the season.

Raccoons may be taken, by either the hunting or trapping method, October 16th to February 1st, inclusive. Coons may be taken by individual hunters or hunting parties 5 a day. While there is no daily limit for trapped coons, a season limit of 40 includes both hunting and trapping.

Woodchucks may be taken 5 a day this year between July 1st and September 30th, inclusive; next year July 2nd to September 30th, inclusive. The season bag on "cocks" is unlimited.

Crackles remain unprotected, but they may not be hunted in October. Red squirrels may be taken in unlimited numbers except during October.

This year, antlerless deer hunting only will be permitted, November 27-28, the first two days of deer season. The opening hour on November 27th will be 9:00 a.m., not 7:00 a.m. as on recent years. The "buck season" for male deer with two or more points to one antler, will run November 29th to December 9th, inclusive. In the 1950 season, a hunter may kill either one antlerless deer or one legal antlered deer, (but not both) within the periods prescribed, whether he hunts individually or with a camp or party.

The season on bears is November 13th to 18th, inclusive. Bears over one year old may be taken by individuals, one a day and one the season; by hunting parties of three or more, 2 a day and 2 the season.

There will be no open season on hen pheasants, cub bears and elk. The muskrat season will be closed during the entire 1950-51 license year. Beavers may be taken, 2 a day and 2 the season, February 15th to March 1st, 1951, inclusive, in all counties of the Commonwealth, though certain beaver dams will be closed and posted against the taking of "flat tails" wherever the Executive Director deems it advisable to protect brood stock. Unlimited numbers of minks and otters may be taken November 6th through December 16th this year. The commission placed skunks and opossums on the unprotected list until September 1st, 1951.

THE LOW DOWN

HICKORY GROVE

No difference where you live --- Delaware to Nevada --- your town or county has a problem. And 9 times out of 10, it is the water supply, the sewers, the schools --- always more bonds and more debt. And always, somebody claiming mismanagement --- somebody claiming political favor being handed out. And, sometimes, if you look close, the guys are right --- there is something in the woodpile.

So, my deduction is, if we are to avoid more and more debt, we gotta reduce the number of places where Govt. and politics can barge in and take a hand at management, or mismanagement.

When the gas mains or the light wires or the water company is in private hands, you have gas, and light, and water. And the gas company and the electric company and the water company provide the bonds --- they pay their way in taxes, and you don't worry about shortages, or more local bonds and debt, even if your home town is growing by leaps and bounds.

I am not "agin" the Govt. --- I am "agin" the Govt., city or town fumbling around in business ventures. To decide if you are on my side or vice versa, figure it out if you think the Govt. could take over and run the business you are in, as good or better or worse than you can run it your ownself. Let me know.

Yours with the low down,
JIMMY
