Used Address Here To Conduct Sale Of Chicks

A Lancaster man using Mount Joy as his home and business address, defrauding purchasers of chicks, ran point blank into the law which is usually the case.

Victor E. Reese, of Juniata St., Lancaster, was indicted last Thursday by a federal grand jury on nine charges of using the mails to defraud purchasers of newly-hatched

The indictments charge Reese advertised "blood-tested grade AAA" chicks for sale at $4.50 per 100. But in some instances delivered none at all to purchasers and shipped to others chicks that were "weak and sickly." U. S. District Judge George A. Welsh issued a bench warrant

James E. Speake, a postoffice inspector, estimated that Reese received $3,000 last year in chick sales, using his home and a post office box at Mount Joy as his business address. Speake said Reese bought up an oversupply of chicks from Lancaster hatcheries at one or two cents and offered them for sale.
