EDITORIAL

Some folks have absolutely no respect for age unless it is bottled.

A single man has his conscience to guide him and a married man his wife.

DON'T BLAME THE WAR

Prices on almost every building material have risen since January, and are still on the climb. These increases, contrary to popular opinion, are found to be due to the heavy consumer demand for housing and increasing wage levels, rather than to the present Korean conflict.

In spite of all fine-spun arguments to the contrary, wages and salaries are the major costs in production. Improved methods in manufacturing, distribution and retailing have reduced operational costs but they cannot forever offset wage and tax increases—hence climbing prices.

REMEMBER NOVEMBER SEVEN

A great privilege will be enjoyed by the American people this fall—a privilege they will find difficult to appreciate because it has been handed down to them from generation to generation. On November 7 general elections will be held throughout the country. We should all remember voting is the individual's assurance of freedom. There is no ruling class in America, but the people who vote have within their power the ability to decide what kind of a government we shall have.

THIS, WE LIKE

When the President telephoned Gen. Marshall to ask him to be Defense Secretary, the general said he would consult with his wife before making the decision and then took the job upon her advice.

There is a closeness in marriage when a man, faced with a decision, large or trivial, wishes to talk it over with his wife, get her opinion, showing her the consideration of expressing her views on a matter which affects both lives. Too many men would have you think they are self-made, that their word is law in the home, that they make the decisions in business and family matters. If true, then we don't regard them so highly. A man gains ground with you when you hear the homely, considerate statement: "I'll consult with my wife."

IT PAYS DIVIDENDS

Millions of dollars are spent for waste and losses. Each of us pay the price of carelessness. Millions of dollars are saved by good investment that pay lucrative dividends. One of the finest investments that will save hundreds of millions of dollars a year, if made by each of us, is the prevention of fires. Through paying attention to fire hazards, putting into practice what we know about safety measures to prevent fires that destroy life and property, we will reduce the harvest of death and destruction caused by them. Whether it is a fire great or small, costly or unimportant, it adds up to a disgraceful record for a country that is educated in the cost of fires due to carelessness.

INDUSTRY AT ITS BEST

There is one thing about private industry that gives the United States a great production advantage in case of emergency. It does not have to wait on political decisions and appropriations from Congress to get moving. Virtually every basic industry in the nation has told the government it is ready to go ahead and produce what it wants when it wants it.

Take the railroads. In peace or war the country depends on them for moving its major crops, manufactured products, and the people.

At the present time more freight cars are needed. Without any long-winded argument the railroads have ordered more than 100,000 new cars this year and thousands more for the next few years. No compulsory legislation was needed to alert them. They did not wait to be told. They did not wait for government aid or handouts. Foreseeing potential danger ahead and greater demand for their services, they acted. Over a billion dollars is being invested in freight cars alone to build up the freight fleet to 1,850,000 cars.

Since 1945 the railroads have spent over $4,500,000,000 in modernization to increase operating strength and efficiency. They have made these expenditures in spite of low earnings, high taxes and subsidized competition charged to the general taxpayer, including themselves. Since 1945 they have paid several billion dollars to the government in taxes instead of receiving tax subsidies.

Such a record represents private industry at its best.

WE COULD STOMACH THIS

It has been understood that military cuisine cannot be likened to good home cooking. But each war finds the conditions bettered, with dieticians at work to plan palatable meals for our boys. Field rations have become more appetizing though we have heard some lads giving K rations the Bronx cheer. But man's ingenuity is making possible kits that include a meal far superior to the army rations of yesterday. There is a new one for assault troops, about the size of an ice cream package, weighing less than a pound. In the individual cardboard box are two cans, one containing meat patties which can be eaten hot or cold, with a can opener enclosed that is the size of a watch chain. The top of the can holds a heat tablet which, when lighted, gives the effect of canned heat. Over it, in two minutes the patties begin to sizzle. The package contains two portions of coffee with a vial of water purification tablets, if you are uncertain about the water in your canteen. Another heat tablet and you have good, hot coffee. There is a tin of cookies, two sweet chocolate bars, three cigarettes and a stick of chewing gum, to complement your meal.

War is still what Sherman said it was, but you can't say the same for the food, if this new package is a sample of the fare.

NEW TYPES OF BENEFITS ARE NOW PAYABLE

Several new types of benefits are now payable under the recent amendments to the Social Security Act that were not payable previously. These changes generally have the effect of making more persons eligible for benefits than would have been eligible.

Children under the age of 18 may now be eligible on their mother's wage record even though they were living with their father when she died provided she was currently insured. For instance, if both parents are working on jobs that are covered by the law, and the mother should die, the children would be eligible. Previously, if living with their father, they were deemed to be dependent only on his. M. S. Gleaton, Manager of the Lancaster Social Security office, said that there are a number of cases like this in Lancaster County. In the past, a lump sum payment would have been made to the widower. If there are any children still under age 18, they might now be eligible for monthly benefits.

Under certain circumstances, a wife may now be eligible for benefits before she is 65 years of age. This could occur if her husband was receiving old-age insurance benefits and if she had in her care a child entitled to benefits on her husband's wage record. Of course, the child, to be entitled to benefits, would have to be under the age of 18.

In such a situation, the wife could apply for benefits which would be payable as long as that child was in her care, under the age of 18 and unmarried.

Monthly benefits may now be payable to dependent husbands and widowers, and in some cases to divorced wives who were dependent upon the deceased wage earner from whom they were divorced. Gleaton said he would explain these new benefits in more detail in a later article.

From Sept. 1, 1950 to Sept. 1, 1951, skunks and opossums will be un-protected in Pennsylvania and may be killed in unlimited numbers.

Week's Best Recipe:

Hawaiian Chicken Curry: 1 c hot milk, 1 1/4-oz. package shredded coconut, 2 cans condensed cream of chicken soup, 2 cloves of chopped garlic, 2 t ground ginger, 3 green onions, chopped, 1/2 T curry powder, 1/2 t salt, 3 c cooked chicken meat. Pour hot milk over coconut, let stand 30 minutes. Meanwhile add garlic, ginger, onions, curry powder, salt, to chicken soup heated in a heavy kettle. Strain coconut thru a double thickness of cheese cloth. Stir coconut-flavored milk into a soup mixture. Add chicken, cook slowly over low heat, stirring constantly. Serve hot on hot cooked rice with an assortment of condiments such as hard cooked eggs and crisp bacon, shredded coconut and chopped peanuts, placed in separate dishes.

Looking At Fashions:

Fall fabrics are "lush," they are "scrumptious," rich in texture to the touch and to the eye. The sheathe type dress is made to flatter even the larger sizes. Necklines are wide with huge collars. Natural waistlines remain popular and the hemline stays at midcalf. Over-skirts are becoming stylish in many designer's lines. Dress skirts feature borders of pleats, embroidery, fur.

If You Can Do It:

The woman with the very short hair cut wonders what to do about the newer way of wearing the hair. Though hair is still somewhat short, it is worn long enough to hold the soft, flattering, pretty waves. If your hair grows rapidly, you can get this longer length before the style changes again.

D. E. ALBERTSON NAMED PP&L SAFETY ENGINEER

Pennsylvania Power & Light Company announced, effective October 1, that D. E. Albertson, Pottsville division superintendent of lines and substations, will be appointed safety engineer. He succeeds the late P. L. G. Hasskarl as head of the company's system-wide safety operations.

H. Richard Taylor, who has been temporarily filling the job since Hasskarl's death in February of this year, returns to his regular position as safety instructor, with headquarters in Lancaster.

Albertson was born in 1899 and graduated as an electrical engineer from the University of Pennsylvania in 1921. After a short period with the Western Electric Company, Albertson was employed in June 1922 by the Eastern Pennsylvania Light, Heat & Power Company of Pottsville, a predecessor company of PP&L.

In March 1926, he became superintendent of distribution of the Pottsville division and in December, 1942 was appointed superintendent of lines and substations of that division.

Albertson is a member of the Masonic Order, B.P.O.E. and Rotary Club; he is a Pennsylvania registered professional engineer and serves as a director of the Fidelity Building & Loan Association of Pottsville.

At the same time the company announced that the safety department headquarters will be moved from Allentown to Hazelton. This is a further step in concentrating in Hazelton. This is a further step in concentrating in Hazelton, the nerve center of the company's operations, additional units of the company's operating headquarters organization.
