EDITORIAL

The most wonderful thing ever made by any man is a good living for his family.

A lot of brainy women earn their own living but the sensible ones let men do it for them.

Always remember that when you have both feet on the ground you don't have far to fall.

JUST A MISTAKE!

A pharmaceutical house has issued a warning to the public, that due to error, bottles labeled castor oil, contain the poisonous carbon tetrachloride. Druggists are alerted. It is a mistake that is very serious, but a Mount Joy father gives us a humorous side. He says it is difficult enough to get Junior to take castor oil under normal circumstances, but since Junior can read, he will now refuse definitely to cooperate. We expect this is going to be a fine excuse for many oldsters, who never liked taking the stuff anyway. However, in all seriousness, such an occurrence makes us mere fully aware of how our very lives are so dependent upon the carefulness of others. We all make mistakes, but perhaps not such costly ones.

KILLING A PRIVILEGE

When hunting seasons open, sportsmen take to field and woods, marsh and stream. The true sportsman abides by restrictions, considers rights of others by preserving an amiable farmer-hunter relationship. Unfortunately all hunters are not sportsmen. The signs that read No Trespassing or No Hunting were probably put there by farmers who met up with the hoodlum hunter, the kind who cuts wire fences, tramples crops, kills stock. Mere land is restricted each year, more counties have passed No Sunday Hunting laws or closed the county entirely, all because of the ill-mannered gun-toter. Some sportsmen's clubs issue hunter's cards to members and will stand for less to the farmer through carelessness of those members. Such clubs are few. If today's hunter wants to preserve the right for future generations, he will report the enemy hunter to authorities.

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT

Fruit, nut, potato and apple growers got together and organized to publicize their product and boost sales. Now the onion growers, feeling that in onion—we mean onion—there is strength, are uniting to put breath into their neglected vegetable and bring tears to the eyes of those who have underestimated the onion's culture and health value. If everyone would eat onions they wouldn't object to an onion breath. If onions make you weep, maybe a good cry would bring you emotional relief. You'll see literature soon, telling of the nutritional value in onion soup, onions fried and creamed, onion salad and sandwiches. We wish to state to the recently formed committee for the furtherance of onions, that here in Mount Joy there are already many seasoned campaigners.

YOUTH SPEAKS

In Washington, early in December, there occurs the 1950 mid-century White House conference of civic, education and social welfare leaders, who are making regional surveys, taking notes, to send to this Washington conference to assist in evaluating youth's problems, the potentialities of children. Folks often get enthusiastic about presenting the adult angle they forget to check with the adolescent. In Camden County in New Jersey, a committee of elders spent five and a half hours discussing, reading reports, quoting statistics and trends.

26 Taxpayers

The report of the commissioners was filed in the Court of Quarter Sessions office and 30 days were allowed for exceptions to be filed. The 30th day was up Wednesday.

Filing the exceptions for Mt. Joy Township School District was William B. Arnold; for the township supervisors, W. Roger Simpson, and for the individual taxpayers, Austin E. McCollough, Jr. The exceptions are now scheduled to be heard by the Lancaster County Court of Quarter Sessions.

Among the exceptions is one charging that the hearing before the commissioners September 19 at the Court house was a cut and dried affair. Other points being submitted to the County Court is one charging that neither the Mt. Joy Township school board nor supervisors were notified when the viewing was held on the property under discussion last June.

Also listed is the point that facilities like light, water and the jointly maintained road can be maintained by joint agreement as well as by one township.

ELECTRIC VENTILATION!

IT KEEPS THE DAIRY BARN DRY! FRESH! ALL WINTER LONG

Why put up with dripping walls and ceilings and a humid, smelly dairy barn...when you can keep your barn dry and fresh automatically with easy-to-install electric ventilation? An electric ventilating fan replaces stale damp air with clean fresh air...without draft! Improved herd health and stepped-up production quickly offset the installation and operating costs. Controlled electric ventilation will prevent excessive moisture. It will greatly reduce the danger of rot in timbers and siding and the rusting of barn piping. It will save paint. And most important, it will protect your health, protect herd health and increase milk production. Talk it over with your PP&L Farm Representative. He'll be glad to show you how to make an inexpensive ventilating installation in your barn. You'll be amazed how simple it is! See your local electrical farm equipment dealer and get your ventilating program under way... greater production means greater profit...and money saved is money earned.
