To speak at E'TOWN SUNDAY Farm Machinery Repairs Require

By IRA MILLER Farm Electrification Bureau

There's an old saying that the farmer who hasn't used baling wire to fix a broken machine hasn't farmed very long. For machine parts do break occasionally. And a breakdown durlong their "work life." Electric arc welding is the process by which metal parts are joined in the heat of an electric arc at the elec-trode. Farmers, who have fumed in disgust at a broken hitch brace know what it means to be able to "join"

broken metal parts in a hurry. For time, weather and crops can't wait. Many such repairs can be made with a welder without removing the broken parts from the machine. Fortunately, it is not difficult to learn to weld. Manufacturers provide vices. easily followed instructions with their machines. Additional pointers can be obtained from most College Extension Departments, vocational agriculture insructors, power suppliers and deal-ers. Welding schools, also, are con-ducted periodically in many farming areas. In thinking about purchasing a velder, here are some timely tips:welder, here are some timely tips:-Be sure your welder is the kind you need, and use the proper elec-trodes for the job. Don't let your welder stand idle. Put it to work, and it will pay its way by helping to keep your machinery in running order, thereby eliminating exasperating de-lays and minimizing repair bills.

Farmers with a lively imagination and a fair sized scrap pile, can spend many profitable hours in making a host of "labor-saving devices." These include ditchers, straw forks, weed sprayers, milk carts, snow plows, drags, trailers, gates, elevators, hoists and feed troughs. All of which goes to show that yourself and your overall farm operation of a constant supply of running water on the bitterest winter day...protect your water pipes against freeze-ups automatically with electric heating cable this winter. Wrap the cable around all exposed water pipes, around the casing of your pump and around your storage tank! Use heating cable and you'll have water running freely through your pipes without trouble, without worry, no matter how cold it gets!

The cable is flexible and easy to install under any conditions. I Practical, low cost operation electric heating cable is your 'surest protection against frozen pipes.

PERMANENTLY ...

Investigate the other wintertime uses of electric heating cable, too. Use it for warming hotbed soil, for radiant heat in the poultry house floor, for melting congealed liquids such as molasses to be used in feed mixes, for melting snow and ice in eaves troughs and on driveways, steps and walkways.

For complete information on heating cable, and how to plan the most efficient installation, contact your local PP&L Farm Representative. Ask him for the informative PP&L booklet on ELECTRIC HEAT-! TING CABLE and its uses!
