SUPREME COURT REFUSED TO REVIEW A DECISION

The United States Supreme Court refused to review a decision of the United States Court of Appeals for he Fourth Circuit which invalidated a wholesale electric power contract between Pennsylvania Water & Power Co. and Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Co. of Baltimore under which the Consolidated Co. had extensive controls over the business of the Fennsylvania Water and Power Co. The decision will permit Penn Water to proceed with plans for the m dernization and expansion of its plant, it was said at the Pennsyl. vania Water & Power Company's

HARVEY RETTEW'S HERD MADE NEAR RECORD TEST

With an average of 390 pounds of tut erfat and 10.922 pounds of milk, the six-cow herd of registered Holstein-Friesians wned by Harvey Rettew, Manheim RD, completed their last test year recently. The tesing was carried on under the official Herd Improvement Registry program of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Milking was done two times daily, and testing was supervised by Pennsylvania State College, in cooperation with the national Halstein headquarters.

Applying Shingles

In applying asphalt shingles over an old wood shingle roof, first nail down loose shingles. Split warped shingles and nail down the segments. Place bevelled wood "feathering" strips along the butts of each course of old shingles. Apply an "eaves flashing strip" of asphalt roll roofing. Use six nails in each three-tab, square-butt.

Overhead Water System Creating Wide Interest

The use of overhead sprinkling systems for irrigated farming has created widespread interest in areas where artificial watering is necessary to crop production.

Among the merits of overhead sprinkler systems is that land leveling-which removes valuable top soil from high spots, is not necessary, and ground ordinarily used for ditches can be utilized for growing crops.
