"Keep Clean"—Defense Advice

Take it from a renowned health authority: "Grime doesn't pay!" According to Dr. George Uhl, head of the Los Angeles Health Department, there is an important relationship between high standards of household cleanliness and national defense.

The washing machine is a favorite member of every family. It provides a never-ending supply of clean clothes, and the assurance of good health and that "clean feeling." In times like these, the family washer is essential to the health and happiness of the American home.

"Cleanliness begins at home," said Dr. Uhl, "and provides one answer to the oft repeated question: 'What can I do to help national defense?'"

"We learned much during the second World War and we have continued to improve public health practices and methods since then. Food handlers, for instance, have been taught the importance of cleanliness and our public schools have stressed courses in health instruction. Due to a vigorous national and local health education campaign, people are more health minded today." The great number of new home washing machines now in use in this country are a plus factor in the public health favor," he said.

His statement underlines the acceptance of the electric washing machine as essential to the health and morale of the American home.

Around the world, wherever there are Americans, there is soap and the unrelenting instinct to keep clean. The G.I. takes his bath in his helmet. The sailor dips himself in the sea. And Americans at home rely first on the family bathtub and then on the family washing machine, a tool that is fast becoming the nation's best morale booster.

Americans spend more time washing than they spend eating. Dishes, faces, elbows and clothes are dipped in suds every day in forty million homes, for cleanliness is a virtue and an old American custom.

These days, clothes like their wearers must work harder, last longer, and be ready for emergencies. Shortages, higher prices, and general tightening of supplies of civilian wearing apparel make clothing economy a must. Washing economy is the only way to meet this critical situation, and the washing machine is the best economizer.

Ben Franklin on Peace
At length we are in peace. God be praised, and long, very long, may it continue. All wars are follies, very expensive and very mischievous ones. When will mankind be convinced of this, and agree to settle their differences by arbitration?

Poultry Study
Poultrymen who gathered eggs three or more times a day, kept layers confined, and kept no males in the laying flock had higher quality eggs than poultrymen who did not follow these practices, according to a recent study of poultry farms in the Northeast.

Thin, but Efficient
The film of palm oil on the finished hot dipped tin plate used in making "tin cans" is so thin that it can barely be seen with the naked eye. It is five times thicker than the average coating of tin on steel.

Stored Carrots
After 30 weeks of storage, nine varieties of carrots contained more carotene, the basic material of vitamin A, than they contained before the storage period started, a recent government study showed.
