Most of Packers' Sale Dollar Goes to Farmer

Industry Expects Near Record Production in '51

The meat industry—from farmer to consumer—is an important part of this country's economy. Of every dollar exchanging hands in the industry, 78 cents goes to the country's farmers.

Profits in 1949, as reported by companies producing the bulk of the nation's meat supply, averaged 7.10 cents out of each dollar of sales, or about 1/3 of a cent per pound of meat sold.

As shown by the above chart, payrolls get next to the largest share of the packers' dollar—10.7 cents; other expenses totaled 9.6 cents and taxes got 1 cent of the dollar.

Of every packer's sales dollar, 78 cents goes to the country's farmers.

Profits included those made on the sale of meat and all other products, including by-products and non-meat items, such as soap, cleansers, medicinal glands, and dairy and poultry products.

The meat industry expects a near record production during 1951. Consumption will remain high due to defense buying and record employment, industry spokesmen believe.

Egg Production Depends On Well Balanced Ration

Poultry experts report it requires about one pound of balanced feed for every seven eggs produced. To make a well balanced ration the vocational agricultural service of the University of Illinois advises:

Use at least three feeds from the cereal grains and by-products to make up 75 to 90 per cent of the ration.

Five to 10 per cent of the ration should comprise an animal-protein feed.

Use one or more plant-protein feeds, if available at reasonable cost. Not more than 15 per cent of the ration should come from this group.

Include at least one legume roughage, to make up 5 to 10 per cent.

Some carrier of calcium should be included if the ration contains no meat scrap, fishmeal or tankage.

One pound of common salt should be added for each 100 pounds of total ration.

Hog House

Scientific hog raising for highest profits calls for warm, dry, insect-free housing. The sure hog house above is simply constructed. Its dimensions are 7 feet by 6 feet, and 4 feet 10 inches high. Built on skids, it has a one inch rough floor laid on 2 by 4-inch sills. Studding of 2 by three inch lumber supports the masonite quarter-inch tempered hardboard used for siding and roof. This material is durable and weather-resistant. Four-inch light strap hinges are used for turning back the roof door. Plans are available by writing Farm Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 West Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill. The plan number is AFB-196 and are free.

Plan Hog Pasture—Farmers planning next year's crops should include an alfalfa pasture for hogs to save grain and protein feeds.

U. S. Crop Production Up During Last Ten Years

Agriculture during the last decade has increased production from 10 to 14 per cent although its manpower has declined and the nation's population has increased, agriculture leaders point out.

The increase was due in great part to agricultural colleges with their branches of extension, research, and resident-teaching. Mechanization also played an important part in the increase.
