EDITORIAL

Many a child is the tyke his mother wouldn't want him to play with.

One seldom finds women, who, when angry, simply refuse to speak.

Would that we could return to the good old days when the greatest danger from the enemy was poison gas.

Old money is chopped in two by a Treasury machine and what that old money will buy today has been chopped in quarters.

REMOVING THE SQUEAK

It has been some long time since we heard anyone complain about his shoes squeaking. Time was when manful strides or tiptoe motions gave out a squeak, for that was the way of foot gear years back. What ever happened? Well, scientists worked on the properties of materials used in manufacturing shoes and de-squeaked them. But, according to some present day dermatologists, the result has been an increase of skin disease of the feet. It is another case of not being able to have your cake and eat it. At the price of footwear today, we feel that we should have neither squeak nor scratch from our shoes.

WHAT IS A BILLION?

As we eat our 75-cent "Blue Plate" special, we pour over the front page news, skimming past the billion of dollars asked for taxes, the billions to go for foreign military and economic aid, the billions for U. S. military requirements. Such figures are beyond our range of comprehension, when we are confounded by our small income of dollars and cents. What is a billion dollars. A man, the other day, gave us a clear understanding of "how much". If Jesus, from the day of His birth, had spent $1,000-a-day for these 1950 years, He would have used only $711,550,000. There would be 790 years MORE, to use the remainder of ONE billion. This would be the year 749, and many generations later. And no wonder it is beyond our power to realize the enormity of 16 billion dollars.

SIGN OF THE TIME

The practical observer admits that Gen. Eisenhower, as important a role as he is playing in world affairs, is also having an effect on the drama we call politics. It is undeniable that, as certain as Senator Taft's forces may be, the five-star general is gaining a stronger and stronger backing. Whether General Eisenhower would enter the presidential picture, whether he should be nominated were he a candidate, are being widely discussed. Rumors are afloat, issuing from two practical and the dreamer. The latter: that President Truman would place Eisenhower's name before the Democratic convention in 1952, that Eisenhower, by acclamation, will have a bipartisan nomination. But, it does appear that, with the dynamic personality and delivery of General Ike, he will have to be taken into political account by Sen. Taft.

THEY CAN DO BETTER

Statistics are offered the concerned teachers, the worried parents, that the trend of youngsters is away from concentrated television, that children's eyesight will not be ruined nor their grades, since the viewing time of children on the daily average, is now less than the past "high". But the educators do not say that TV isn't having its influence on the kiddies, with offerings of microbe warfare to lady wrestlers. They are hoping for better programs for adults, as well. All that the National Association of Education Broadcasters ask is that a reasonable proportion of present unassigned television channels be reserved for educational stations. Research into seven New York TV stations finds this percentage of total time: 14 per cent to vaudeville, 10 to sports, 10 to adult crime drama, 10 to commercials, 7 to quiz shows, 1 to religion, 1 minus to fine arts, 0 to child care, economics and American history. Some educational broadcasting which has been tried, has failed. The medium is so full of possibilities for fine programs, but it needs developing to gain a following. Surely there could be interesting periods devoted to biology, art, music, astronomy, hobbies, economics, history. After all, television is young and will learn as it grows older. It is a big field and much good can be planted in it that will reap a rich harvest for its public.

VALUE OF BROTHERHOOD

It is fitting that National Brotherhood Week should be at the time of George Washington's birthday. This first president of our country, loved liberty, for he staked his honor, fortune and life to maintain it, to preserve it for you and for me. Washington knew that to keep this liberty one must be eternally vigilant, must guard it well against destroying forces. This too is the price of preserving brotherhood. It was George Washington who wrote: "To bigotry no sanction to persecution no assistance". This land of ours is vast in its cultures, talents, its skills for building industries, tilling farms, developing the arts and sciences. All of these have come from human resources, mixtures of humans of many nationalities, races, creeds. It is true that men differ in religion, in race, but the rights of the individual and the unity of a nation, must be upheld if we believe that George Washington had a noble purpose in preserving liberty for his beloved land. We believe that a more perfect union, domestic tranquility and the establishment of justice, comes in giving more than just lip-service to Brotherhood.

The Bulletin's Scrapbook!

Week's Best Recipe:

Egg Noodle Ring: 8 oz. broad noodles, 2 T butter, 1 green pepper, minced; 1 onion, minced, 1 pimiento minced 1/4 t salt, pepper, 1 c milk, 1 c grated American cheese, two eggs, well beaten. Cook noodles in boiling water until tender. Drain and rinse. Melt butter in frying pan and cook the green pepper and onion until tender. Add noodles and remaining ingredients. Turn into a buttered two-quart ring mold. Set mold in a pan of water and bake in 325-degree oven one hour. Unmold and fill center with creamed mushrooms or other creamed mixture. Serves six to eight.

What A Fashion Note!

Talk about "fancy pants! A fashion note from England informs us of a spring fad starting there that may become popular here. It is three-toned trousers for gay blades, such as a color combination of blue-green legs, gray cuffs, dark brown pockets. A London outfitter says they hope to sell men on the idea of going into color with pockets and cuffs of bright red, blue and yellow. A local woman says if this sort of thing moves into our town, she is going to move out.

Here's An Idea:

Make use of a discarded felt hat by cutting it into felt pads to use under flower pots, vases, lamps, or anything that might scratch the furniture. Cut into shape by tracing around a glass or bowl. To make a finished edge, use pinking shears.

ONLY TWO TERMS FOR A PRESIDENT IN THE FUTURE

From now on, no President of the United States—except for Harry Truman—may be elected to more than two terms.

And under the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution, which for all practical purposes became law this week, no man or woman may serve more than ten years in the White House.

The amendment, while limiting future Presidents to two elective terms, allows a person who has served two years or less of an unexpired term to be elected twice on his own.

As President at the time the Amendment was approved by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress, Mr. Truman was specifically exempted.

SHORT STORY

Easy Touch

By Ona Freeman Lathrop

THE KID HAD BEEN following him for two blocks now. How was a guy to pick up any spare dough with a goggle-eyed urchin at his heels? You couldn't do it, that's all. He turned and waited for the kid to catch up. "Say, beat it, will you? G'wan home. This is a tough neighborhood. Your ma'll be worried about you."

3-Minute Fiction

The kid dug his frazzled shoes in the dirt. He was a skinny little rat under the ragged gray sweater and the thin patched jeans, once you took a good look at him. His tow hair hung in little wisps from under the old torn cap, but his big brown eyes looked trusting. You couldn't hit a kid with eyes like that. Hank Nolan winced as he remembered how he'd always been an old sofie for brown eyes. The kid whined, "I'm hungry. There's nothin' for supper. I thought—"

How Many Cigarettes Were Sold in the U. S. in 1950?

It may interest you to know, whether or not you helped to smoke them, that 361.3 billion cigarettes were sold in the United States in 1950. That is nine billion over 1949. The Government received tax for the above amount.

The kid was a skinny little rat with wisps of tow hair sticking out from under the old torn cap.

eyes watching. Giving him the low-down on what kind of a guy he really was. Nope, he couldn't do it. Hank let the fellow go on past. He faded into the Eat Shop. Mel was at the cash register by the door. There was a nose flattened against the outside of the pancake window, and two big brown eyes were peering through hungrily at the steaming cakes.

"That job still open for a waiter, Mel?" Hank asked. "Sure is, Hank. You want to begin right now? We're in a jam." "Be glad to," Hank answered, "if you could advance me a dollar or two." He pocketed the dollar bills Mel flipped to him and opened the door. "Be right back," he called to Mel.

And then to the big brown eyes he said, "Here, kid, take this home to your ma and tell her to get something good for supper. Tell her old man's got a steady job at last. And eat yourself a good meal tonight."

The brown eyes—so much like Katy's—stared. "Gee, thanks, Pop. Be seein' you." And the ragged sweater went shooting out of sight down the street. Hank swaggered in like a new man and put on the white apron Mel handed him.
