The Oldest House

ident of town, writes us that he thinks the Orphan School building is the oldest in town. He says this property dates back to the Civil War and was used as a school for men before it was made an orphanage by a Mr. Wright.

Grace Kraybill Taylor, 309 Clinton Ave., Oak Park, Ill., writes: "In reference to the oldest house in Mount Joy I would say the Kern property on Main street. Also the former Sheetz home, corner Main and Delta streets. My grandmother Elizabeth Lehman, aged 104 when she died, told me she lived in the Sheetz corner when they moved to town. She died in 1908 and the house had been occupied by a Wenger family. The Kern home is even older than this property."

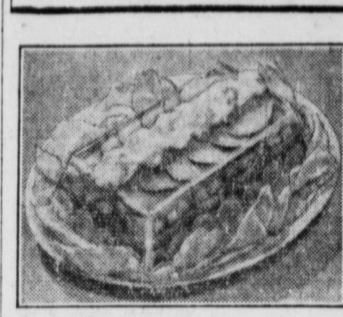

The Henry G. Carpenter property across Delta street, was built by Philip Frank about the same time, she told me."

Editor: Mrs. Lehman died at 104 and has been deceased 43 years, a total of 147 years.

Plus the years they were built before she moved there would make an actual record for the now Tingley and Carpenter homes would be at least 150 years, while the Kern property is even older.

We have a number of others but they are far younger than any of the above.

Nancy Holmes SUGGESTS

LUSCIOUS fruit salads are appealing treats any time. But somehow they seem extra special in the Spring because of the lily they give our tired winter appetites. For a real taste of sunshine, Nancy Holmes of the Best Foods consumer kitchens suggests this Amber Fruit Salad, which is just as pretty as it is palatable.

Amber Fruit Salad
2 packages lemon flavored gelatin
4 cups boiling water
2 red apples
2 oranges
2 bananas
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1 tablespoon orange marmalade
Lettuce

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Pour a thin layer of gelatin in bottom of a rinsed but not dried 9 1/2 x 5 1/4 x 2 3/4 inch loaf pan. Refrigerate until stiff, then cut half of an apple in thin wedges and lay overlapping on gelatin. Peel remaining half and whole apple, cut in chunks and place over apple wedges. Pour one-third of gelatin over apples and allow to set. When stiff, peel and section one orange. Lay sections along outside of mold. Dice remaining orange and place in center of mold. Pour over 2nd third of gelatin. Allow to thicken. When stiff, slice bananas and place slices standing up around edge of mold. Place remaining slices in center. Pour remaining gelatin over bananas and allow to stiffen. Unmold on a bed of lettuce. Combine real mayonnaise and orange marmalade and serve with salad. Serves 6 to 8.
