

OWL LAFFS

—BY— A WISE OWL

A Lancaster department store received the following letter: I'm enclosing $15 in stamps. Please send me something. I like surprises. -- Can you beat it?

Belonging to the Chevy family, we think they're a darn good little car that'll give you plenty of service when treated right. So when we saw Charley Bennett, Sr., being pushed downtown in his Belair on Saturday we couldn't help but wonder what happened. -- Now we know! You just must put gas in 'em or you want 'em to run, and Charley neglected to do so. They can't run entirely on reputation.

Our women folk are getting a terrific charge out of the Brothers of the Brush. They report as they do their shopping very promising beards, others are still in the itching stage, while still others just look splotchy and dirty faced.

Only the young men seem brave enough to face two shaveless months. Get on the ball you town fathers, don't let the young fellows show you up.

A local World War II veteran was saying he might have to go back into the Army.

What're you complaining about? snapped a buddy. You've had a nice 3-year furlough! -- That's one way of looking at it.

Say, fellows, how many of your spouses are going to have nerve enough to go without cosmetics? They don't mind their husbands knowing what they look like at breakfast, but I'll wager there's few will want the rest of the town to know. Now, as for my spouse, it won't make any difference. I never could decide which way she looked the worst, with or without makeup. -- You know what a clown's face looks like with paint on, especially the big mouth? And she's getting so heavy her dresses look like tents. Howja like to live in a circus, like I do?

Bob Hope says President Truman will go down in history as the man who said, I'd rather write than be President!

A grade school teacher was trying to get over the intricacies of subtraction. "You have ten fingers," she said. "Suppose you had three less, then what would you have?" "No music lessons," Johnny replied promptly. -- Could be.

Approached by a panhandler, I gave him a dollar and thought it best to add a stern lecture. I said, "Take a look at yourself. Why don't you get wise?" He just looked at me. I added, "Here you are. You've mispent the best years of your life; you pass your nights in jail, box cars or park benches; you're broke, ragged and hungry. Why don't you go out and get a job?"

"What!" he replied. "Get a job to support a bum like me? -- I think he's got sompin'."

On a recent trip by train to N. Carolina a lady in the center of the parlor car heard the request of a female passenger directly opposite asking the porter to open the window. Anticipating a draft, she snapped testily:

"Porter, if that window is opened, I shall freeze to death."

"And if the window is kept closed," returned the other passenger, "I shall suffocate."

The poor porter stood between the two, puzzled and uncertain.

"Say, boss," he finally said to a traveling salesman seated nearby, "what would you do?"

"Do!" echoed the traveler. "Why, man that's a very simple matter. Open the window and freeze one lady. Then close it and suffocate the other." -- I agreed whole heartedly.

ANNUAL ACTIVITIES OF LEGION AUXILIARY

The Ladies Auxiliary of the W. S. Ebersole Post No. 185, prepared a brief resume of their activities for 1950, at a recent meeting.

Their obligations are varied and are financed by the yearly membership dues, public card parties, poppy sales, regular meeting collections, and any other approved means of raising funds.

Each Auxiliary is requested to sponsor an orphan from Scotland Schools. This requires the sending of gifts for Christmas, birthdays and other occasions.

The members travel to Coatesville Veteran's Hospital several times a year for their Ward Parties, at which they entertain veterans with games and refreshments.

1950 donations sent to Veteran's hospitals at Christmastime totalled $100 and were sent to Lebanon, Coatesville, Valley Forge, Aspsanwall, Naval Hospital, Perry Point and others.

At this time gifts are also sent to local veterans families and contributions made to the March of Dimes, Community Chest and Sister Kenney Fund.

Once a year the Legion receives a cash gift to be used in any manner they designate. Past donations purchased french fryers for the Legion home kitchen and financed the painting of the kitchen. This year's gift went toward the cost of the Legion sign.

Americanism Awards are presented annually to two pupils, at both the Mount Joy and Landisville Grade Schools.

Two Scout troops have been organized by the Auxiliary, obligating them to supply leaders and contribute funds when the occasion demands.

Added to all these accomplishments, the members of the Auxiliary continually save coupons and box tops. These are sent to Department Heads and the proceeds used to build additional equipment at various Veterans Hospitals.

Few non-members realize the many commitments this group assumes and successfully fulfills until a public report is made. It is definitely not just a social organization.

Naturalized citizens of the U. S. are entitled to all privileges except that of becoming president.

Egg May Aid in Correcting Childhood Abnormalities

The electroencephalograph, the device that records brain waves, may become a valuable aid in the correction of certain abnormal behavior that occurs in late childhood.

So says Dr. Donald Lindsley, visiting professor of psychology on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

Many behavior disturbances of each childhood are due to brain injuries at birth, he says. Some of these result in paralysis, cerebral palsy or other readily observable manifestations. Others, however, may not manifest themselves at first but may result in abnormal behavior later in life.

With the use of the electroencephalograph it may be possible to spot brain damage immediately after birth, Dr. Lindsley points out. Although damaged brain tissue may not be repaired, corrective training to compensate for abnormalities may be initiated.

The main problem in adapting the device to such use is in establishing satisfactory norms in brain wave patterns of babies. Once the norms are established, he believes the EEG (abbreviated term for the device) may become a valuable tool.

In the future, it is possible that doctors can chart your baby's brain development like they do his physical growth today, Dr. Lindsley declares.

All adult birds, the pheasants were distributed throughout the county to replenish stock killed off during the hunting season last Fall.

To Thaw Frozen Birds

Poultry may be thawed in the package just before cooking, or the outside wrapper may be removed and the bird thawed more rapidly in front of an electric fan. A 3-pound bird requires about six to eight hours per pound to thaw in a refrigerator. However, an electric fan will thaw a 5-pound bird in three to six hours. Turkeys require more time. If wrapper has been removed before thawing, the bird should be cooked immediately or there will be danger of spoilage. Also, remember that when poultry is not completely thawed before cooking, it is necessary to increase the cooking time so the meat will be done all the way through when time is up.
