Russian Mission's Spoke at Landisville

Rev. Peter Varonoff, Russian Missionary from Odessa, Russia spoke in the Church of God at Landisville, last evening.

Rev. Varonoff stated that from 1930 to 1941 all religious worship was forbidden in Russia. The churches were closed, and Sunday, Resurrection Day in the Russian language, was just another working day. But, he states from 1941 when the terrors of war were being brought to the Russian people, they demanded to be allowed to go to church and worship. The government consented, and the churches were opened. Millions of people flocked to the churches, and are still doing so.

On the first day of worship, Joseph Stalin came to the largest church in Moscow and stood for an hour during the service, merely to enhance his popularity. Rev. Varonoff compares Stalin's act with that of the Devil in a story in the Bible where the Devil came to church.

Rev. Varonoff says that the Russian people were seekers of God and that Christians in Russia outnumbered the Communists. The Greek Orthodox faith alone has 35,000,000 members, while the Communists in Russia number only 3,000,000.

The speaker also pointed out that in Moscow, a city of 8 million, there are only 30 churches, and that on Sundays as many as three separate services are held to give as many as possible an opportunity to worship. Stereopticon views of the city, and of other scenes of interest in Russia, were exhibited by the missionary.

Rev. Varonoff, who has spent most of his life in Russia, and whose parents are missionaries there, says that Communism has three elements: denial of God and the suppression of religion; abolition of private ownership of property; and hatred of the rich. "Communism", he quotes, "is power based upon force and limited by nothing." Some believe, he says, that some day Lenin, the God of the Godless, will return to life.

Who said You can't Afford a Fine Car?

WHEN you look at everything a ROADMASTER has to offer, it's natural to conclude that it's priced with the rest of the fine-car field.

Sweeping proudly past you, it has a distinction that few cars can equal.

Stepping nimbly away from a stop light, it has the willing surge of power that the very exclusive combination of a 152-horsepower Fireball engine and Dynaflo Drive* delivers.

It rides the road with majestic smoothness, and comes to a smooth and gentle halt, in response to the finest brakes that Buick engineers ever developed.

Inside, it has spacious room, from side to side and front to back and seat to roof—plus a softness of cushions and a richness of fabrics which bespeak the custom standards to which it is built.

All you could want in a fine car is here in abundance.

But don't let that mislead you into deciding "it's too rich for me."

If you've looked into 1951 car prices generally, you'll discover this:

You can own a ROADMASTER for just a shade more than an ordinary car will cost—and for several hundred dollars less than the price tags usually found in "the fine-car field."

Why not look into this today?
