EDITORIAL

Everybody now has or should have, an interest in taxation, and in government extravagance and waste. A blanket demand for government economy is the only way it will ever ease up, is our opinion.

Most of the big auto manufacturers will seek additional price boosts on automobiles. Chrysler will ask for 9 1/2 percent increase in price while others will ask for ten percent. CPA sources at Washington, say most of the price increases apparently must be granted.

Therefore Mr. Motorist, prepare yourself.

The public may relish price wars, as the people in New York have shown, but unless we miss our guess the reciprocal thrashing among dealers isn't likely to go on very long. The free enterprise system is based on profit and you can't make a profit on large scale selling at, or below, the cost price. The price war, however, has proved that the dollar isn't dead, but it isn't likely to live so high again for a long time to come.

The paper work required of small manufacturers and store keepers is just about impossible. With labor being given constant pay raises in defiance of controls, the little men are told they can roll their prices back . . . and pay the increased help out profits. Small wonder that these small purveyors have in great numbers flatly refused to comply with these onerous and voluminous directives. Yet all government needs do to spawn more government is to say that refusal or inability to comply with bureau decrees is unpatriotic, against the defense effort, and its position is unassailable.

THEY'RE NOT TOYS

Police in various cities, particularly Philadelphia, have learned that tiny "toy" pistols an inch and a half long, designed to fire a blank cartridge, are being offered for sale to be attached to a charm bracelet.

At Boston police reported ballistics tests showed the pistol could drive a common pin thru an 18-page newspaper. Put a small pellet in the barrel and you can drive it into a pine plank one-fourth inch. The pistols are made in Japan and sell for $1.95.

This sale should not be permitted thruout the United States.

FORECAST NEW AGE OF FARM ELECTRIFICATION

This nation is entering a second phase of farm electrification in which new and broader uses will be made of the "Perfect Servant" to save time and labor. This is the view of Professor F. W. Duffee, who operates the University of Wisconsin Electrical Research Farm.

Today, he said, the average American farm uses about 2,250 kilowatt hours of electricity each year. But on the Research Farm, where every possible use is made of labor-saving power, 44,800 kilowatt-hours are used—ten times as much. He does not predict that the average farmer will be using this much in a couple of years. But he says, "I do believe that we can look forward to very substantial increases in the next 10 years . . . I firmly believe the tide is running strong for the second phase of farm electrification."

Professor Duffee pointed out that peak power use pays off. He said heat lamps save an average of one pig per litter in cold weather; lighting of the hen house increases egg production; a silo unloader and barn cleaner saves the work of one hired man. This is important in this day of labor shortages and record wages.

Now, as a result of the tremendous postwar expansion program of America's business-managed power and light industry, the job of making electricity available to agriculture is virtually complete—the juice is there if the farmer wants it. Electricity has done much to revolutionize farming already. It's a sure bet that it will do a great deal more in the future—to the economic advantage of rural America.

SPORTS SURE STINK

The sporting world is certainly getting "fed up" on competition today and we've arrived at the point whereby it's rather difficult to witness a sport event that is on the level. Recently at an auto race all cars finished in the order in which they started. Over at Hershey recently a wrestling match wasn't even a good show.

At Boston Rocky Graziano, for the second time in four weeks, put up such a lousy boxing exhibition that his opponent's purse was withheld.

Several weeks ago a western university discovered that its entire basketball team was throwing games last season and to top things off it appears West Pointers were cheating on exams.

What a wolly world!

A CUBIC FOOT OF COAL

A cubic foot of soft coal weighs a trifle more than 80 pounds. It is not big, but it contains an amazing amount of energy.

For instance, this energy would be sufficient to cook the food for most families for about three days. It would produce enough manufactured gas to supply the average domestic user for a whole week. It would supply enough electricity to operate a range for 19 days or a refrigerator for nearly two months.

Coal is one of the most important elements in the operation of modern industry. It produces steam, gas and power. It runs trains, power factories, and helps make the steel used in our skyscrapers, automobiles, battleships and thousands of other things. It is a storehouse of valuable chemicals. And it heats nearly 18,000,000 homes—more than half of the national total.

Our underground resources of coal are, to all practical purposes, without limit. They are estimated at the inconceivable figure of 2,500,000,000,000 tons! For every ton of coal mined so far in our history, there are more than 80 tons still in the ground. It is truly a national resource — 31 States have mineable deposits.

Today's coal mines are mass production factories, where machines do the work under the guidance of skilled workmen. The improvement in safety has been one of coal's greatest achievements. In the course of a year, 99 percent of the mines have no fatalities at all, either above or below ground. In terms of man-hours worked, mining is four times as safe as it was 40 years ago. A hunk of coal isn't a beautiful object, but it can do a long list of vital jobs.

The American Tree Farm system, started in 1941, has now spread to thirty states.
