A WISE OWL

You know it sure do beat all the way time flies. Here we are, the last week in August and I ain't even figured where the heck I'm going on my vacation, and what I could use for money to pay the expense.

If you hear about any more safes bein' robbed, don't look me too dern close in the eye—could be guilty.

But then on the other hand it's far better walkin' round in this great and glorious country, even if you must wear patched pants and shoes with the heels worn flat, than to sit in a one-room, one window place, starin' out.

Wouldn't stop much on skip the vacation and drink en eat out my $2.17 I saved. That would buy a lot of soda pop, ice cream and hot dogs.

Talkin' about vacations, here's one I dern near forgot. Carl Brandt, who works here at the printing office helpin' us to do our worryin', took his first ride on the super-highway recently.
When he seen all them little lites on posts along the road to show motorists the way, he asked me why they have so dog gone many parking meters on the road and at the same time charge you to drive on it.
Well that wasn't so bad but when they charged him fifteen cents fer a koke, he said Phila. is a slow town. They don't even know they took the tax off of belly wash.
Then to top it out, when he saw the A's hand the World's Champion Yankees the worst drubbin' of the year, he told Charlie Roth that sports smell louder in the City of Brotherly Love than they do up around West Point.
Carl, old chap, I think you got sumpin there.

The other day a woman on Main street kissed her husband goodbye. He was gone on his vacation. She worries when he's away.
He told her he might be back before she knows it and she said: That's what worries me.
Deputy Sheriff Zerphey had a prisoner in court recently and when court opened the Judge said that if anyone interrupted this trial he would be thrown out of the court room.
Elmer said his prisoner shouted: "Hurrah for the Judge."
After all this writin and worryin I finally decided to take a Scotch vacation. I'll stay right here at home and let my mind wander.
Mr. Roy Tyndall purchased the brick dwelling of the late T. M. Breneman on East Main street.
