Farmers Advised Now Is the Time To Cash In On Your Old Scrap

"Harvest your iron and steel scrap right away. Turn it into cash. It is needed for the making of steel for the defense program." That's the appeal being made now to farmers by the Committee on Iron and Steel Scrap, American Iron and Steel Institute. Inventories of scrap are critically low at mills and foundries because of their record high production. Bigger stockpiles are needed if steel output is to be maintained and increased.

With winter coming on, when scrap is more difficult to find, and with steel capacity scheduled to be sharply increased, the situation is truly critical, according to the committee. More scrap must be obtained from farms in order to make more steel!

Someone who fully understands the precautions that must be followed to insure success, there is very little chance of a cholera outbreak, even though the animals are later exposed to the disease.

Proper barnyard sanitation also pays off. Kept in reasonably clean surroundings, pigs are protected against worms and other internal parasites. The parasite-weakened pig is a poor vaccination risk.

Housing should also come in for attention. Pigs stand a better chance of building disease resistance if they are well housed without draughts and dampness.

Thus, veterinarians advise that well fed, well housed, and well cared for pigs, when vaccinated properly against hog cholera, stand little danger of contracting this costly disease.

inches.

Chinchilla
The extreme softness of chinchilla fur is due to the fact that as many as 80 hairs sprout from a single hair follicle.

Dairy Cattle
Indications are that the downward trend in dairy cattle numbers have been checked and in some areas has started upward.

Farmer's Question Corner PREPARED BY
AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

What About Anthrax?

Q: How serious a threat to livestock is anthrax?
A: It depends on the locality.
Although anthrax has occurred in almost every state, there are only a certain number of regions where it is a constant hazard.

Q: Is the disease very deadly?
A: Yes. It is the most dangerous of all known animal diseases; and it kills human beings, too.

Q: What are the symptoms of anthrax?
A: Owners may not see any "symptoms". Often an animal is suddenly found dead, for no known cause. Then, unless prompt steps are taken, anthrax may easily spread all over the locality.

Q: What causes anthrax?
A: A tiny spore, which lives in the soil. The spore form of this germ can survive for years, and still kill.

Q: What can one do to prevent
anthrax?
A: In "anthrax areas" livestock can be protected by vaccination.
However, vaccination should NOT be done except in these areas, or where an outbreak occurs. And in any circumstances, the vaccinating should be done by a veterinarian. Because the anthrax spore is very deadly, and careless or improper handling may actually cause an outbreak.

Q: If an animal dies of anthrax, what should be done?
A: Move all
stock off the pasture where the animal has grazed. Call a veterinarian immediately to make sure of cause of death. Then follow his guidance on method of handling the rest of the herd, and on disposal of carcass, as the dead animal is a threat to all other stock in the neighborhood.
