HIDDEN TAXES

Hidden Taxes, account for a large part of the retail price of most things we buy. Take a simple article like an iron pot: the iron mine paid taxes, necessarily had to charge enough for ore to cover them; the railroad that hauled the ore, the steel mill to which it went, the pot manufacturer, the wholesaler, the retailer—all these had to include tax costs in their charges and you have to pay enough to cover them all. An automobile, it is estimated, incurs 20% separate taxes along the road from raw materials to your garage. When you pay $2000 for a car, about $400 of it is taxes.

NO PARADISE

Next January, a retailing association which has a membership of more than 7,000 department, chain and specialty stores will hold its annual meeting in New York. An announcement says that attendance by retailers is expected to be substantially larger than at past meetings—because of heightened concern in retail circles over government price and wage policies. These subjects will be exhaustively discussed.

A great many people seem to think the present era is something of a retailers' paradise with high prices, big sales volume, and so on. That simply isn't true. The retailer, regardless of the type of his store, has found that, in many cases, his costs have risen farther and faster than have the prices he can charge his customers for merchandise. He has been faced with the problem of consumer resistance to the price trend, which has steadily cheapened the dollar. And on top of that, he has been subjected to economic controls which are exceedingly complex, which involve vast masses of red-tape and which, very often, are totally impractical. There has even been evidence that OPS favors "profit control"—which was never so much as considered by Congress, and which could disrupt and grossly weaken our whole economy.

Under free competition, America witnessed the growth of the greatest mass-distribution system on the face of the earth. It was enormously important as a builder of better living standards for all. That system must be undermined by political controls whose principal virtue is to provide more jobs and power for bureaucrats.

THE MAIN ATTRACTION DOG PATCH HOUSE

A Dog Patch house is one of the main attractions at the annual Sadie Hawkins Day dance, sponsored by the Junior class on November 16th. Characters from the Lil Abner comic strip will be reproduced on large murals along the walls of the stage. The dance floor will be separated from the audience by an old rail fence and swinging gate, rows of corn shocks and pumpkins will march gaily along the fence.

Music will be by the Lord Charles orchestra from Red Lion.

Dancing starts at 8:30 until 11:30. There will be cold drinks, potato chips and other refreshments on sale during the dance.

LOCAL ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert M. Rice, of 148 New Haven Street, this borough, announce the engagement of their daughter, Doris Jean to Cpl. Clarence M. Justis, son of Mrs. Florence Justis, of 620 George St., Lancaster. Pfc. Justis is stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill. No date has been set for the wedding.

where he was a member of the Alpha Gamma Rho, agricultural fraternity.

Entering the Agricultural Extension service in April, 1922, Eby served in Allegheny county since May of that year. He participated in one of the early agricultural programs on KDKA and has continued to use radio in his extension activities.

A dairy herd improvement association organized under his supervision in 1924 has been in continuous operation. The county has been accredited for bovine tuberculosis and completely tested for brucellosis.

He organized the agricultural division of the Allegheny County Free Fair, which began in 1933, and is now reputed to be "the world's largest 'free' county fair."

Eby also worked with the county fruit and vegetable growers' association in establishing a location for a night market.

During World War II he organized volunteer workers to assist in the victory garden program. During these war years, 9,939 samples of soil were tested for lime requirements.

Mr. Eby served two years as secretary-treasurer and one year as president of the Pennsylvania Co. Agents' Association.

He is a son of the late Amos F. Eby, of East Donegal. Mrs. Eby who was Emily Newcomer, is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Newcomer, of this borough.

Students assisted the teachers in each of the above episodes. Following the program refreshments were served through the courtesy of the East Donegal High School Student Council.

High school teachers had also arranged educational exhibits in various business places and churches of Florin, Maytown and Marietta. These exhibits will be on display during this entire week in celebrating American Education Week, Nov. 11-17.

Coming Assemblies

Mr. Stanley S. Dotterer, faculty chairman of the assembly committee, announced coming assembly programs as follows: Nov. 21, Assembly for Grades 9-12, Induction of Hi-Y Club members. The speaker will be Dean H. G. Bucher, of Elizabethtown College; Nov. 30, Jr. Hi Assembly, Junior Band and Junior High School Talent Show.

Attend Convention

The following Student Council members from East Donegal High School will attend the county Student Council Convention at Ephrata Friday, Nov. 16: Yvonne Brubaker, Stephen Doles, Jeannette Ginder, Avis Shetter, and Phyllis Wolgemuth.
